Grain sales to Russia expected

By DIETER KRIEG

JEFFERSONVILLE — Penn State extension ag economist Louis Moore was telling farmers here on Wednesday that the possibility for more grain sales to Russia was very real — and sure enough, on Thursday the government announced that more grain sales to the Soviet Union had become a reality. According to USDA, it was Soviet agricultural officers who contacted the U.S. for more sales — not vice-versa. Moore had said in his talk on Wednesday that the Russians were extremely short of grain and definitely embarrassed by their crop which came up to only about two-thirds of expectations. On top of that, Moore said the Russians were flabbergasted that USDA's estimate of the Soviet crop had actually been much more accurate than their own.

Rumors in commodity markets on Thursday indicated that a 3.5 million metric ton sale had already been concluded, but the reports could not be confirmed.

Details on the newly initiated grain sales to the Soviet Union — which have President Ford's approval —

Farmers face amended laws

By MELISSA PIPER

LANCASTER — Within two weeks the final revisions for manure and sewage disposal under the Federal Water Pollution Control Act of 1972 will be announced and for farmers all over the country its recommendations will probably have widespread effect.

Termed as the most "comprehensive environmental control law" ever written, "90-500" will have provisions for many more small farmers then it did before amendment.

The federal law was spawned from consumer and legislative interest for the concern of keeping all waters in the United States clean and free from pollution. In its original state, the law was somewhat lenient towards the farmer and their means of manure disposal or storage; however, following suggestions by a number of consumer groups, the small farmer has come under its tenacious inspection.

Gerald Bodman, extension engineer for Penn State, discussed both the federal law and the Pa. Clean Streams Law in conjunction with his address on manure utilization at a swine management meeting held here on Tuesday.

Bodman cautioned that the new laws now coming into effect, would probably be more stringent concerning the handling, storing and utilization of manure. "Good

Ag program unique in area

By MELISSA PIPER

MANHEIM - Within two generations education has spanned the gulf from the one-room school to a school with no walls at all. And while education has employed many unique methods of teaching, the vocational agriculture education has remained conservatively structured - that is until now.

At the Central High School here, the ag classroom has expanded far beyond the physical limits and for 14 senior students, is currently bounded only their imagination and the Manheim area.

Somewhat comparable to the work experience program for students in other curriculums, Manheim's ag cooperative education program has allowed seniors to spend four - one half days per week working, not only in ag business but on the family farm or in similar production work situations. The venture is totally novel in the area and in the state as it provides the student with an opportunity to learn the occupation of their choice while becoming involved with community concerns.

The students must spend five one-half days in academic work but the afternoons are for the students to spend at their jobs which range from swine production to truck driving.

At National Peach Convention

Governmental bureaucracy hit

By DIETER KRIEG

HERSHEY — The National Peach Convention, returning to Pennsylvania after a 20-year absence, met here this week to discuss policies and problems. Pennsylvania, which ranks third in national peach production, also furnished the NPC with its president for 1976. He is Paul McPherson from New Park, York County.

One of the major topics of discussion at the convention was the crop outlook for 1976. Most states reported losses due to exceptionally cold weather, and at least one state - Georgia - expressed concern over premature warm weather. The Pennsylvania crop, according to McPherson and several other growers from the state who were present for the convention, is expected to be about 75 to 80 percent of production potential. It was noted that some frost kill always takes place and the figures aren't really unusual. "One of the things about this business," a moderator exclaimed, "is that one grower's loss is someone else's gain."

The peach crop in Maryland is rated at 70 percent. New Jersey reports a 66 percent crop and New York reported that there will

Arsonist setting fires regularly

Authorities issue fire alert

MECHANICSBURG — State Police and local police in and around this Cumberland County community have issued an alert warning residents - especially farmers - about an arsonist being in the area who has caused nearly $500,000 worth of damage during the past two weeks.

State Police have set up a command post for the purpose of thwarting any more attempts at arson and have supplied the media with the following telephone numbers:

717-249-2121
717-243-4121

Anyone seeing anything suspicious is asked to contact any of the above numbers. "We are considering these fires to be a major crime and need the cooperation of citizens," a police officer said.

The fires occurring in the area to date, with the exception of one on Wednesday night, have been set every third night since Feb. 14. It has caused residents to load their shot guns and police patrols to roam the area in greater numbers. Most of the fires have been occurring in and around Silver Spring Township and that locality is now being patrolled by 14 police cars.

Since all of the fires set so far have involved barns in which cattle, equipment, feed, and antique cars went up in smoke, farmers in the area are spending much of the night inside their barns

PROGRESSIVE FARMERS WANT PROFESSIONAL CONSULTATION

1. Is pH a false indicator of calcium levels in your soils?
2. Is sulphur holding back the yield, protein content and digestibility of your crops?
3. Is excessive magnesium what makes your land so wet and late?

If your present soil tests don't answer these questions, you will profit by our technical help. SOIL TESTS ARE DIFFERENT! Our complete soil analysis will help you balance soil fertility, which means more efficient cropping and feeding - less bought feed and fertilizer - more yield and profit.

WE SELL NO PRODUCTS — ONLY RECOMMENDATIONS

There is a reason why progressive farmers with sharp pencils hire us year after year for soil analyses and recommendations. We save them dollars. Balance makes crops to be proud of. Winter is the time to talk it over with:

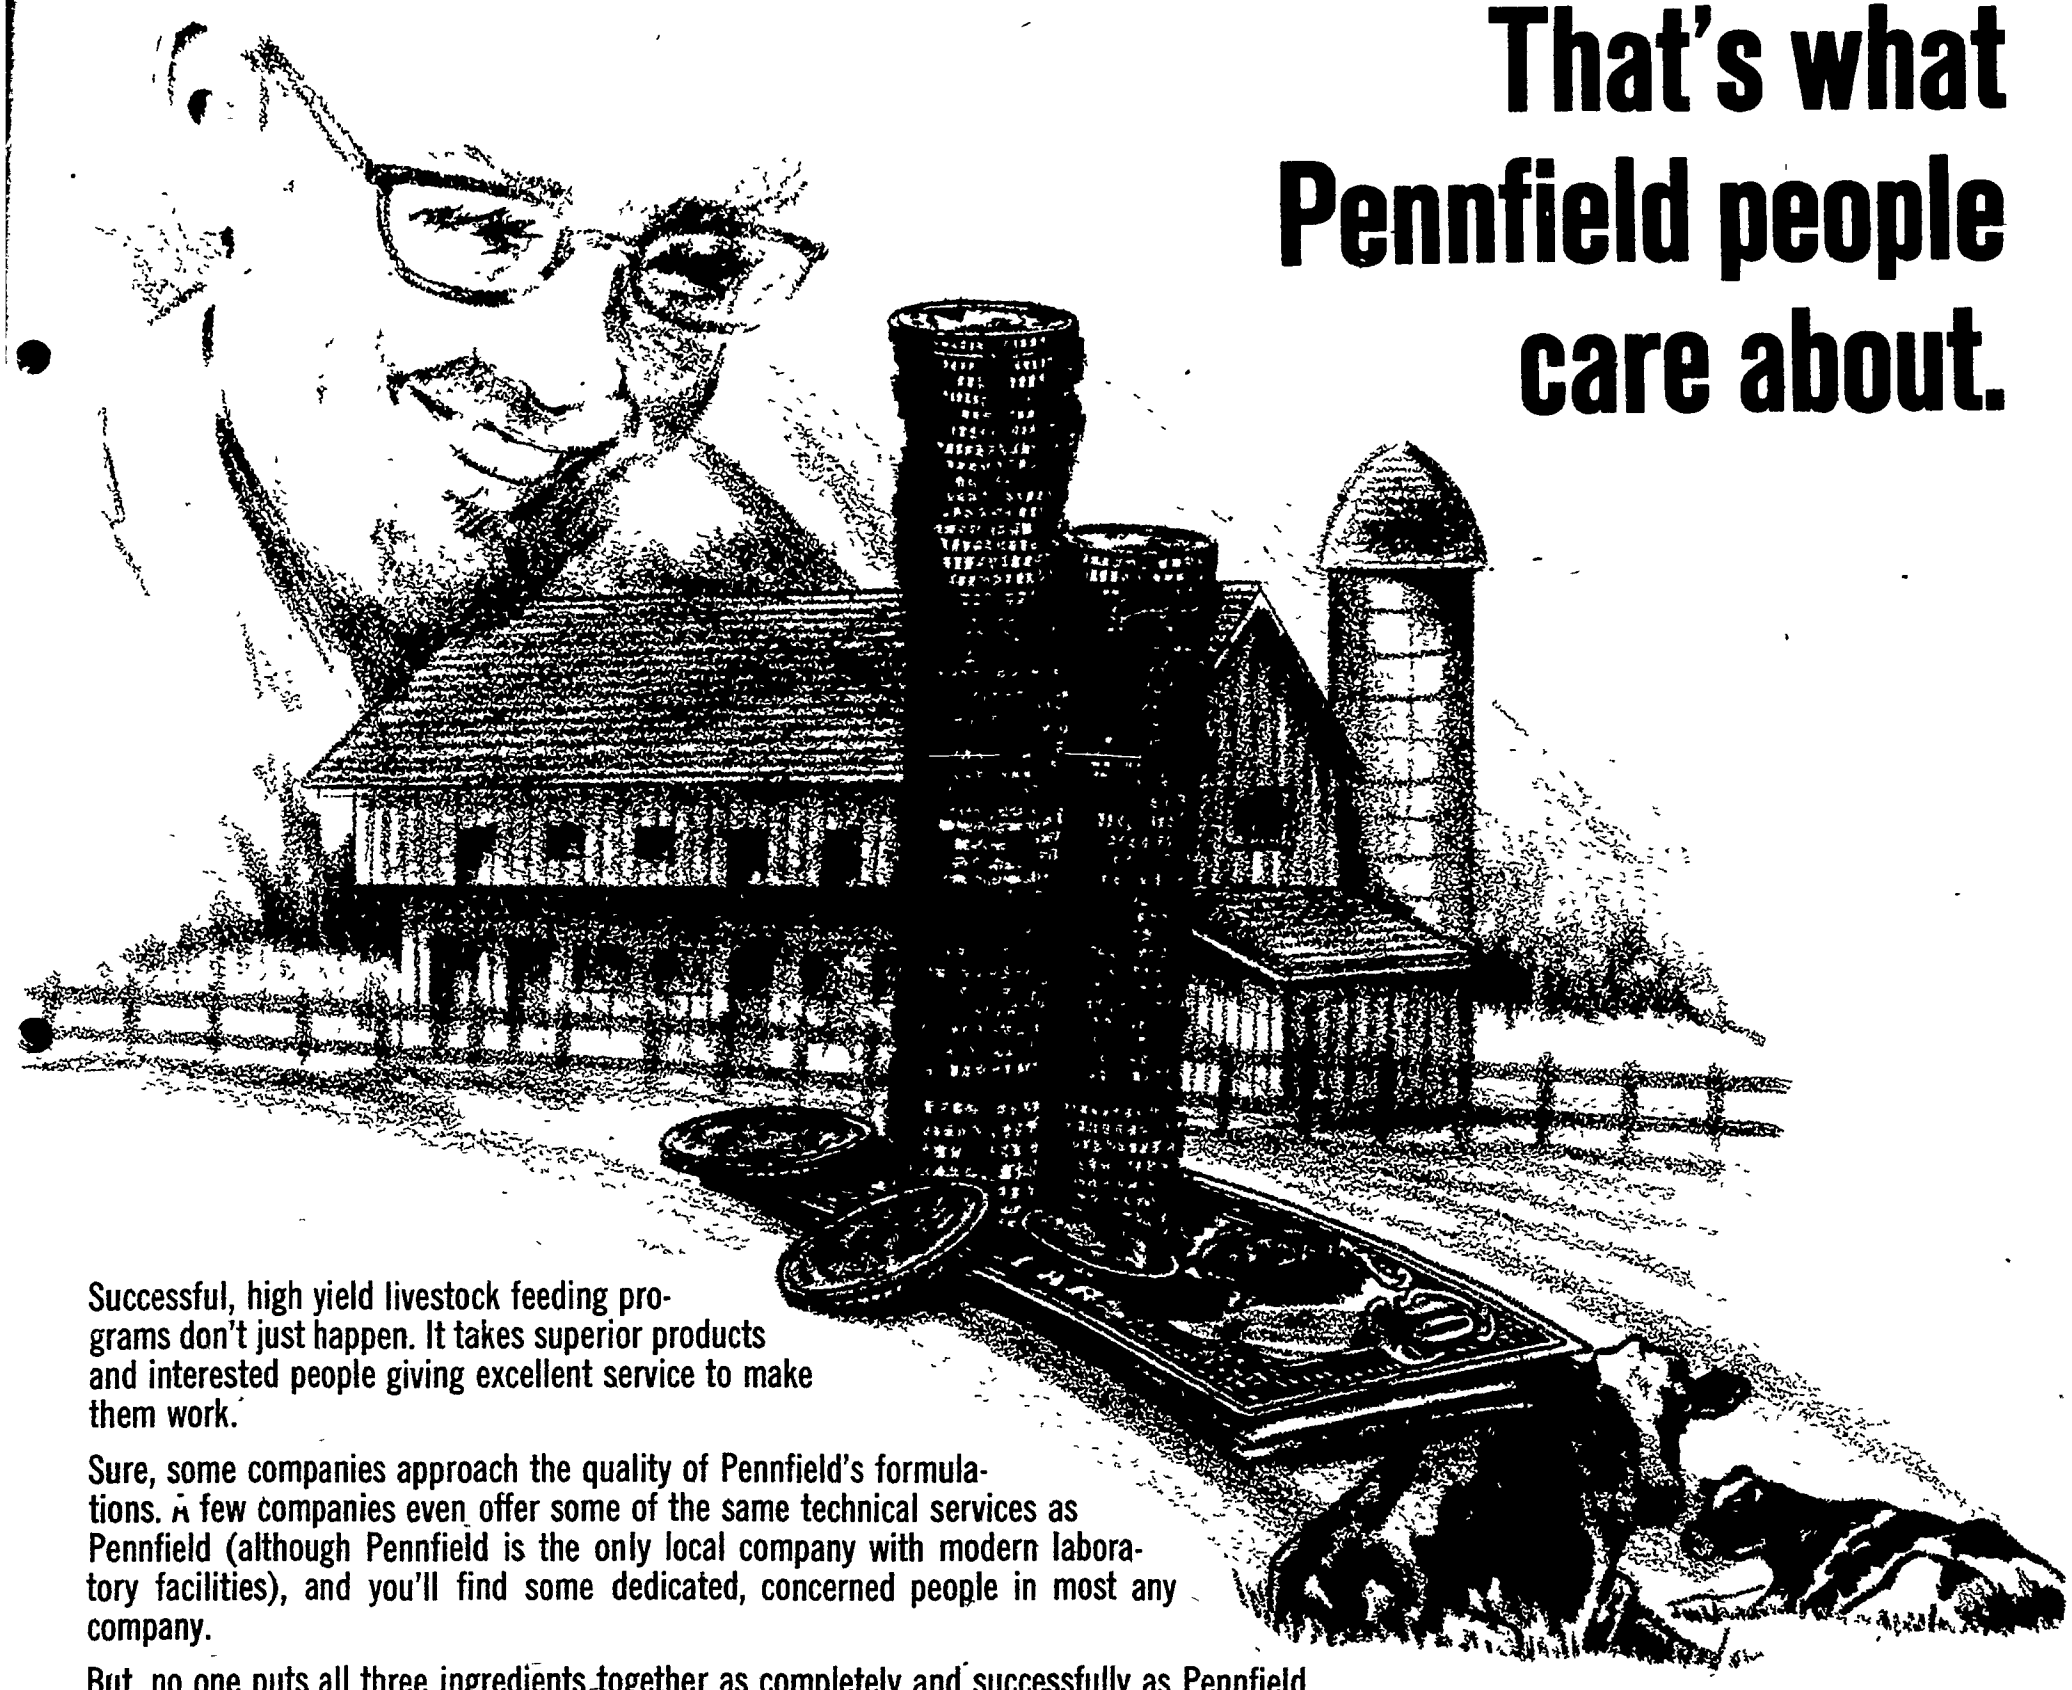
THE WORD'S OUT!

Your LIVESTOCK PRODUCTIVITY, your PROFITABILITY.

That's what Pennfield people care about.



Successful, high yield livestock feeding programs don't just happen. It takes superior products and interested people giving excellent service to make them work.

Sure, some companies approach the quality of Pennfield's formulations. A few companies even offer some of the same technical services as Pennfield (although Pennfield is the only local company with modern laboratory facilities), and you'll find some dedicated, concerned people in most any company.

But, no one puts all three ingredients together as completely and successfully as Pennfield Feeds. Pennfield people combine Pennfield products and services into the kind of complete livestock feeding and farm management programs that result in higher yields, planned growth, and increased profit for Pennfield customers.

Chemists, nutritionists, production personnel, veterinarians, computer technicians, business and marketing analysts, deliverymen, quality control specialists, financial experts, and more . . . led by your Pennfield Area Manager who can put them all together to develop and service a customized, profit-oriented program for you. These are Pennfield people. And, Pennfield people make Pennfield Feeds a better buy!

Want to know how Pennfield people can work for you to improve your yields and profit? Complete and mail this coupon for a no obligation survey.

Local Grain

Friday, Feb. 27

These prices are made up of the average prices quoted by a number of participating local feed and grain concerns. It should be noted, however, that not every dealer or broker handles each commodity. All prices are per bushel except ear corn and soybean meal which are per ton.

The average local grain prices quoted Friday, Feb. 27 are as follows:

	Bid+	Offered+
Ear Corn	64.00	72.00
Shelled Corn	2.73	2.91
Barley	1.85	2.05
Oats
Local	1.55	1.79
Western	1.87	2.05
Wheat	3.35	3.58
Millers	3.30
Soybeans	4.67
Soybean Meal		174.00

+Bid is the price the dealer will buy from the farmer delivered to the mill. Offered is the price the dealer will sell for at his mill.

Re-tired and More

One re-tired guy ended up spending $500. One sign on an office wall: "Don't put off until tomorrow what the boss is going to ask for yesterday." Many people claim they're playing cards for fun but only a few have some money left after the game. Don't worry about the news until it is past-tense.

Feed Creep Wean No. 3

If you're in the business of farrowing pigs, there is only one sure way to save on feed costs — right from the start. That's why Vigortone developed Creep Wean No. 3.

This highly fortified pre-mix makes it possible for you to build your own 18% pre-starter ration for about half the cost of a commercial product.

You'll be surprised how much easier it is to get baby pigs on feed fast with this freshly ground ration and how trouble free they stay right on through weaning.

Save big on Vigortone's starter, growing and finishing rations, too.

The reasons for the superior performance of Vigortone fortified corn-soy rations are simple: the pigs are assured the essential balance of amino acids and the proper levels of major minerals, trace minerals and vitamins all the way to market; and you only pay out-of-pocket for ingredients you don't grow on your own farm.

Better feed conversion means lower cost

Each Vigortone corn-soy feeding program has been designed to promote better feed conversion and lower costs. If you'd like more information, see your nearest Vigortone serviceman soon.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS

BY DIETER KRIEG, EDITOR

It's not eggsactly fair

A decision made by the Federal Trade Commission just before Christmas of last year ruled against egg advertisements which claimed that there was no proof that cholesterol is a contributing cause of heart disease The FTC had spoken, even though many renowned doctors and medical journals throughout the world consider their decision and accompanying 101-page report as not being worth more than the paper it's written on.

The National Commission of Egg Nutrition, which had sponsored the ads, was gagged. Its rights to the First Amendment had been taken away, the Commission argued.

On February 11 the NCEN released a full page ad in the New York Post to inform readers about the research findings of leading doctors. Similar or identical ads were also, or are to be, printed in the Chicago Tribune and the New Orleans Item. The cost of this campaign to furnish the American public with all of the facts -- not just those which the FTC wants them to hear and read — is in excess of $16,000.

It's an expense which should not have to be necessary in a country which we think of as being free and the home of the free enterprise system.

What's worse is that while the NCEN ads are being restricted, the manufacturers of egg product substitutes are allowed to go right on proclaiming that their imitation eggs are cholesterol-free and that the genuine product is dangerous. What it amounts to is legal thievery — the cutting away of a market without the other fellow being allowed to fully defend himself.

What NCEN did in its recent full-page advertisements was to present the facts which the FTC chose to ignore — statements and research findings by heart specialists, universities, and medical journals.

The British medical publication, Diet and Coronary Heart Disease had this to say in its evaluation of the issue:

"The government does not want you, the American people, to know these facts. It has poured too many millions of dollars into fruitless research projects to permit challenge of its pet hypothesis. Consumers, your government says, are unable to analyze for themselves health claims relating to complex areas of medical science. So its bureaucrats gag those who hold opposing scientific opinions."

The bureaucrats are apparently too arrogant to allow the possibility of their being proven wrong — so they drive on and on in the direction of the answer they've apparently predetermined.

Although the advertisement was paid for by NCEN, the organization actually said nothing in the ad which they themselves can take full credit for. They reprinted medical research findings and documentation which show that eggs are indeed a very nutritious and wholesome food.

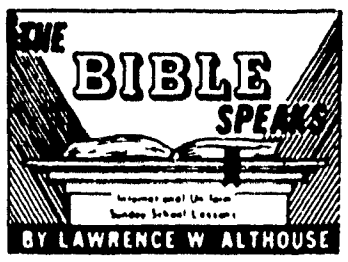
Dr. Michael DeBakey, for example, stated: "Most of the dietary advice about how to prevent heart disease is just so much bunk. The people who take strong positions on food — who even want to have laws about it — are absolutely unreasonable. Eggs are a wonderful food. What about the American Heart Assn. and its earnest dietary campaigns? Well, you've got fanatics in that group too."

Dr. Christian Barnard said: "People tell you to stop eating fats, stop doing all sorts of things. They make your life miserable, but they don't know what they're talking about."

NCEN provided an entire page full of such quotes for readers to study.

It's a pity that NCEN is forced to go to this type of a publicity campaign just to present the truth — or at least the other side of the argument, and a strong one at that considering the renowned doctors and institutions who oppose the FTC decision. It's shameful and disgusting that such circumstances exist in the United States.

Calling a person an "egghead" generally makes reference to his high level of intelligence. It's doubtful that any true "eggheads" were involved in the crackdown on eggs — unless they had some mighty thick shells.



THE LIMIT

Lesson for February 29, 1976

Background Scripture: Matthew 18.

Devotional Reading: Psalms 51:1-10.

SEVENTY TIMES SEVEN DOES NOT EQUAL FOUR HUNDRED AND NINETY!

That is the title I would have liked to have used for this column, for it sums up well what Jesus is saying about forgiveness in Matthew 18.

It is difficult to tell whether Peter is simply asking Jesus an ethical question or is seeking his counsel in handling a personal situation between himself and another. The way he asks the question — "Lord, how often shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him?" — sounds a bit like a man who is at the end of his patience and is seeking only a little confirmation before he lets loose with his temper.

On Settling Accounts

Actually, it seems that Peter is making a very magnanimous offer: "As many as seven times?" (Matthew 18:21). Some people are hardly able to forgive another person even once, let alone seven times. If you have experienced someone seeking your forgiveness several times, you know how difficult it becomes to forgive them on each succeeding occasion. Seven times seems a very high standard.

Jesus, however, must have shocked his listeners when he put before them what must have seemed an absolutely hopeless standard: "I do not say to you seven times, but seventy times seven (18:22). Surely Jesus was jesting, but, no, it was obvious that he wasn't.

Yet, Jesus did not mean that they should forgive each other four hundred and ninety times (seventy times seven). He was not setting an arithmetical limitation at all, but rather something that went far beyond arithmetic and finite capacities.

Seven Times

This is made apparent in a parable which he tells as soon as he has given Peter his surprising answer. In a sense, the parable seems to have little to do with the teaching about "seventy times seven." It seems to have to do with "why" you forgive rather than how often you forgive. But if we examine it closely, we see that the parable and the teaching about the limits of forgiveness go together.

The thrust of the parable is that we cannot expect to receive forgiveness from God if we ourselves do not forgive those who sin against us. If we want mercy, we must be willing to give it. The warning is distressingly clear: "So also my heavenly Father will do to everyone of you, if you do not forgive your brother from the heart" (18:35).

To put it simply: if we want God to forgive us, we must forgive others. And that is also relevant to Peter's question about how many times he shall forgive his brother: "Lord, how often shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him?" How many times must we show mercy?

The limit to forgive shall be no greater than the limit to be forgiven!

To Be Careful With Liquid Manure

The cleaning of manure pits will be on the schedule of many livestock and poultry operations in the next few weeks. The danger from toxic gases in and above these pits should be recognized by every farmer. This is especially true when the contents are agitated to get it into solution for hauling to the fields. Every month we hear of cases of both livestock and human suffocation, and explosions, from these pits. Operators are reminded of this danger and should provide good ventilation in the area and warn all employees never to enter the pit. Some of the gases are highly combustable and will explode when near sparks, matches, or cigarettes. Pits under buildings where the animals are confined should get special attention at cleaning time.

To Control Wild Garlic

This common weed is a threat to quality milk in this part of the state and the reason for the rejecting of many fields of winter grain for seed purposes. Garlic will start growing very soon and needs herbicide attention before the other crops and plants get started. The use of the ester form of 2,4-D along with Banvel D, or alone, should do a pretty good job of stopping the growth, if it is sprayed when the plants are young. Garlic in fields of winter grain may be controlled by spraying with either of these materials when grain growth is 4 to 10 inches high and when the grain is not seeded down to alfalfa or clover. Dairymen are urged to give some attention to the control of wild garlic to prevent the "onion-flavored" milk when the cows go to pasture.

To Stress Good Public Relations

How do you rate with your non-farm neighbors in your community? The answer to this question is worthy of some thought from every farmer. The kind of an image reflected by the commercial farmer today has an influence on the consumer reaction to many food problems. It has been suggested that farmers make a special effort to remain on good terms with their neighbors in order to have a community with a minimum number of problems. If the suburban family understands the reason for unpleasant odors at certain times of the year and if the farm premises are kept attractive at all times of the year, every one might be more satisfied. Producers should be eager to appear before non-farm groups to explain their farming practices and problems.

To Prevent Manure Pollution

Within the next few months tons of livestock and poultry manure will be hauled to the fields throughout the country. This is a vital part of the industry and needed to maintain soil fertility. The time and method of application of this waste material to the land are in the hands of the farmer. We urge some attention to the prevention of run-off into public streams and into water supplies. One suggestion that would prevent a lot of trouble would be for the manure to be incorporated into the topsoil as soon as it is applied; when this is done there is very little chance for air or stream pollution. I realize this cannot be done in many instances, but the effort should be to do it just as quick as humanly possible.

Nothing is quite so annoying as to have someone go right on talking when you're interrupting.

GEHMAN FEED MILL, INC.
SOW FEEDING PROGRAM

GESTATION			FARROWING		LACTATION			RE-BREEDING				GESTATION
WEEKS	4	3	2	1	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8

Feed Farrowing Ration or Gestation Ration at 5 lbs /head/day for 30 days before farrowing

Increase feed 1 lb./head/day 4 weeks before farrowing.

Full feed during lactation.

A sow needs at least 1 lb. of feed/day for each nursing pig

Maintain full feeding after weaning until sow is re-bred.

After re-breeding limit feed to 4 5 lbs./head/day to control weight gains during gestation.

Feed Needs of sows

Brood Sow Ration 4-5 lbs./head/day

Farrowing Ration or Gestation Ration 30 days before farrowing

Brood Sow Ration

Brood Sow Ration

MANAGEMENT SUGGESTIONS:

1. Feed Farrowing Ration or Gestation Ration 30 days before farrowing to provide bulk, nutrition and medication. About 2/3 of birth weight of pigs occurs in 2-3 weeks before farrowing.
2. Limit feed to 4-5 lbs./head/day during gestation to control weight gains to 40-50 lbs. for sows; 80-90 lbs. for gilts. Energy restriction during gestation increases embryo survival.
3. Feed in feeding stanchions to equalize feed when feed is limited.
4. Farrowing stanchions saves pigs. Heat lamps in creep area permits pigs to sleep in safety and comfort after nursing.
5. Milk flow usually reaches its peak about 3 weeks after farrowing, whereas pigs appetite increases continuously. Encourage early feed intake of pre-starter pellets to meet pigs needs when milk flow declines.

SOW FEEDING PROGRAM

Feed restriction is necessary for bred sows and gilts to control weight gains during gestation. Total feed must be restricted to limit energy intake, yet adequate nutrients are needed to nurish pigs before they are born, condition sows and gilts for easy farrowing and for heavy milk production after farrowing. Two feeding rates - restricted during gestation, full feeding during lactation - are necessary to accomplish these objectives.

Gehman's Farrowing Ration with Aureo SP 250 (16-3-12)

PROT-FAT FIBER

Formulated to provide bulk nutrition, and medication to nurish pigs before birth, condition sows and gilts for farrowing and milk production. Bulk is provided to reduce danger of constipation from reduced activity at farrowing time. Farrowing Ration is medicated with Aureo SP 250 to help maintain intestinal health, lessen dangers of digestive upsets at farrowing and reduce fecal contamination from dam to new born pig. It may be fed during farrowing and for a week afterwards than change to Brood Sow Ration to provide higher energy for lactation.

Gehman's Swine Gestation Ration with XL P-30 (Dichlorvos)

Feed at 5 lbs.-head-day for 30 days before farrowing to condition litters before birth:

CLAIMS	BENEFITS
1. Increase pig born alive	.35 pigs/litter
2. Increase birth weight.	.25 lbs./pig
3. Increase survival to market.	.48 pigs/litter
4. Increase rate of gain to 160 days.	10.4 lbs./pig

PLUS

Removal and control of mature and immature whipworms. Nodular worms, large round worms and thick stomach worms. When Gestation Ration with dichlorvos is fed there is no need to worm sows and gilts before farrowing.

Gehman's Brood Sow Ration (15-3-9)

PROT -FAT-FIBER

Feed at 4-5 lbs. head-day during gestation but change to Gehman's Swine Gestation Ration or Gehman's Farrowing Ration 30 days before farrowing. After farrowing full feed Gehman's Brood Sow Ration for milk production. After weaning continue full feeding until sows are rebred then restrict to 4-5 lbs. head-day.

TAG NO. 212 Gehman's Swine Gestation Ration with XL P-30 (200 mgs-lb. Dichlorvos) (16-3-21) and Tag 211 Gehman's Farrowing Ration with Aureo SP 250 (16-3-12) provide bulk nutrition and medication in the same feed formula supplying protein, minerals and vitamins but differ in medication.

TAG NO. 211 Gehman's Farrowing Ration with Aureo SP 250 contains 250 grams-ton of medication (100 grams Chlortetracycline, 100 grams sulfamethazine, and 50 grams. of Penicillin).

TAG NO. 212 Gehman's Swine Gestation Rations with XL P-30 (Dichlorvos 200 mgs-lb. (400 grams-ton). Swine breeders have a choice of two conditioning feeds for 30 days before farrowing.

Grain sales to Russia

are expected to be announced at a later date which falls more closely to Midwestern primaries.

Moore was in this small town on the outskirts of Philadelphia to take part in the Southeast Pennsylvania Corn Growers Clinic and Trade Show, a two-day affair which drew several hundred visitors.

Although Moore hit the nail right on the head regarding grain sales to Russia, he was reluctant to make predictions due to the many factors involved. He cited no less than 10 conditions which can have an effect on the direction of prices. He did say however, that he personally believes that sales to the Soviet Union are overemphasized. He noted that Japan was our best customer and that a number of foreign countries buy more of our grain than does Russia. The ag economist believed that the U.S. government had caused American farmers to lose considerable sales when it stalled grain sales last Fall in order to give Russian interests a higher degree of priority.

Moore sees an expanding grain exports program ahead for the United States and presented figures for the past 20 years which showed a definite trend in that direction.

The Corn Clinic and Trade Show, held here at the Westover Inn and Golf Club, had two programs going on simultaneously and featured no less than a dozen guest speakers representing universities and agribusiness. Topics on the agenda included weed identification; weed control; sprayer calibration; "corn crystal balling;" fertility and pH; no-till pointers; harvesting, drying and storage of corn; economics of corn handling; world grain markets; the marketing game; and corn production costs calculations.

Approximately 25 agribusinesses had displays and representatives on hand to assist farmers with any questions and curiosities they may have had concerning their respective products.

More stories on the Corn Clinic are forthcoming in next week's issue.

Mini-farm officers elected

Larry Wiker, Lititz R2, was elected president of the Lancaster County Mini-farm Coop at a recent meeting. Other officers elected were John Murphy, Conestoga - vice president; Mrs. Charles Cox, New Providence, secretary; Eugene Degenhart, Lancaster as treasurer.

The group met for an educational meeting on Friday evening and heard Dr. Walter Trumbauer, veterinarian from Ephrata speak on the care of small farm animals.

Organized last March, the mini-farm coop is open to any individual with a small amount of land which he farms as an avocation. The group cooperates in purchasing, sharing of equipment, trading and exchanging labor and skills.

Population Explosion

It has been estimated that before the beginnings of agriculture—some 8,000 years ago—the world probably supported no more than five to 10 million people By A D 1, this probably ranged from 200 to 400 million people In 1750, the human population neared 800 million By 1850, it was 1 3 billion people, which nearly doubled by 1950 In 1975, there were about 3 9 billion people on our planet and some 7 billion people will live on earth by 2,000 A D with a shot gun or rifle in their hands. Many have installed extra lights.

According to witnesses and fire officials, most of the fires have been set between 8 p.m. and midnight. Last Monday's fire, however, went up at about 20 minutes past midnight.

As of Friday morning, state police and fire officials believe they might have at least broken the arsonist's pattern for setting the blazes. But the danger still exists and anyone with information to help authorities catch the culprit is asked to do so.

Ag program

program was a personal dream come ture. But, his ventures spawned from much creative thinking and a "bushelful" of determination.

Erway had observed the work experience program in action but felt it laced initiative for those students who wanted to work primarily in ag production. Many ag students had expressed an interest in returning to their home farms but could not leave school to do so. For them, experience had to wait until evening or after graduation.

"These students really had to wait until after their schooling to gain actual experience in production work," Erway noted. "It meant that they had to adjust to the farming programs later which could mean many months of even a year."

"But with our new coop program, these students can ease into farm partnership or work without a long adjustment period."

Another aspect which caused Erway to alter the typical work program was that few students on job training had the opportunity to become involved with community activities. So with these considerations, Erway began planning his coop work education.

A sabbatical leave from Manheim, saw Erway travel to Penn State where he studied occupational work programs in existence and planning stages. During his study Erway outlined his personal methods and will soon be evaluating the success of the program as his students complete the first full year of the unique ag education alternative.

The students involved in the program, work quite independently but must keep accurate records and become involved in community and county affairs.

The seniors are required to attend five meetings at the county Farm and Home Center which deal with their interests in agriculture and must also attend specially designed seminars every Wednesday at the school The seminars range from learning about life insurance to visiting bankers and attorneys. Field trips are also utilized for educational experiences.

Each individual is required to keep an accurate log of his work on the job, including wages earned and hours worked. And while life "on the outside" might seem like too much of a vacation, the students must maintain a "C" average in academic studies or forfeit the right to be included in the program.

Learning the Family Business

Mark Geib, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Geib, Manheim, is one of the 14 students who will have concluded the first full year of coop education in the spring. Mark is a senior at the high school and has been a member of the FFA for four years.

Jess Erway (seated) and Glen Spangler, ag instructors at Manheim Central High School, have been working with the coop education program for almost a full year.

The Geibs have a sizeable farm near Chicques Creek and raise 200 steers a year along with several acres of tobacco. Norman Geib also runs a trucking business and hauls feed to mills in central and southcentral portions of the state.

Until this year, Mark helped his father but mostly on weekends and in the evenings. Opting the coop education program however, Mark is now spending about 10 hours more per week working on the farm and driving truck.

"The coop program has given me more time to work here and to learn the business," Mark noted.

"I feel more like a contributing part of our family business and will not have to adjust to the work as if waiting till I graduated."

Along with his increased duties at home, Mark has also been attending meetings that pertain to his agricultural interest. In keeping with the program, the youth has attended the no-till conference in Hershey and is planning a trip to Penn State to attend the beef management seminar.

Commenting on the seminar program that he must attend at school, Mark stated, "I have enjoyed the programs as they are of interest to us in a different way."

"We might never have had to see an attorney but now at least we know what procedures they go through."

Mark's trucking work means traveling for many hours and although the youth admits that his schedule is tight for completing the assignments and logs, the youth enjoys being able to work in his chosen profession.

Partnership is Already Started

Gerald Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd B. Keller, Lititz R3, has already entered partnership with his brother although still a senior in school.

Under the coop education program, Gerald is operating a swine breeding enterprise with his younger brother David and also helps out on his parents farm near Lititz.

Gerald took swine breeding projects while an FFA member, but did most of the work on a small scale as his academic studies kept him in school most of the day. Now however, Gerald comes home at 1:30 p.m. four afternoons per week and has been able to increase his operation.

Gerald and David have 18 sows and sell about 250 feeder pigs per year. As their operation is expanding, the youths are remodeling farm structures to accomodate their needs.

"I really wouldn't get as much done if I couldn't be on the coop program," Gerald explained while working on a new farrowing building.

"If I were working on this building only [illegible] nights and on weekends [illegible] we meant another [illegible] before ex[illegible] I have been [illegible] much of the work in the afternoons."

The youth also helps out feeding beef and taking care of field work as needed. Gerald's father is in part-

Berks-Lehigh pork producers hold annual spring sale

By Judy Mitchell
Berks Co.
Correspondent

KUTZTOWN - It was easy to see that pork producing is often a family affair as men, women and children gathered at the Fairgrounds here on Saturday for the Spring Sale of meat type breeding stock-consigned by Eastern Pennsylvania's top breeders and sponsored by the Berks-Lehigh County Pork Producers Association. As Association officers, sales committee members and directors tended to the auction preliminaries, members' wives set up a display of food which guaranteed that no one attending the sale would go home hungry. Two very professional young men, Leslie Lazarus and his nephew Todd Bennecoff, ages ten and nine years respectively, stood by ready to field the hogs as each was presented to prospective bidders. Auctioneering the sale was Ralph W. Zettlemoyer, Breinigsville R1. At the close of the bidding, total sales stood at $10,320 for an average of $211 per hog.

Top sellers of the day were two bred gilts purchased at $350 each: Mini Acres Matilda, consigned by Edward H. Oswald, Slatington R2, purchased by Walter Melton of Allentown, New Jersey; and Loch Valley Tilli, consigned by Warren C. Loch, New Tripoli R1, purchased by Mark Hoppes, Lehighton R1. A total of 49 head were purchased with bred gilts averaging $287, open gilts $131, and boars $180. One littermate pair brought $190.

Saturday's sale was the first of two such auctions which will be presented this year by the Berks-Lehigh County Pork Producers and the Eastern Pennsylvania Pork Producers, the second of which will be held in the Fall.

Earl Rabenold, Kutztown R2, serves as president of the pork producers group with Edward Oswald of Slatington R2 as vice-president. Terry Bennecoff, Kutztown R2, is the secretary-treasurer.

Lehigh expects to be in the black for 1976

ALLENTOWN — Robert P. Barry, president of Lehigh Valley Cooperative Farmers, said recently he expects the Co-op to show a profit in 1976 after several years of losses. Barry took over the presidency of LeHi in June of 1974.

"We have instituted substantial changes over the last year, improving efficiency and adding profitable new lines to our product mix," Barry said. "Operations have been centralized with internal controls developed in all divisions. Volume is increasing steadily in both fluid and non-fluid products."

"Earnings for 1975, while still in the red, show significant improvement over last year," Barry reported. "We have every reason to believe that dramatic positive trends established by the end of 1975 will continue and put us in the black for '76."

LeHi is one of the largest dairy cooperatives in the Mid-Atlantic region, marketing dairy products in five states. The cooperative represents 600 producers and in 1975 processed over 390 million pounds of milk. Sales volume for the fiscal year ending Jan. 31, 1976 was close to $100 million.

Mark Geib uses his off hours from school working as a truck driver on his father's farm. The youth will be working full time following his graduation this spring.

Gerald Keller, a senior and member of the co-op education program, works on his father's farm near Lititz. The youth along with his brother have a swine breeding operation.

Ag program

ership with Gerald's older brother and rents two farms other than their own.

In conjunction with his work at home, Gerald has also spent much of his time attending meetings around the area. He attended the pesticide management course in the county and is preparing to go to the swine seminar at Penn State next month.

Activities and work seem like quite a busy schedule for the youth but he has also maintained high honors in school and has served the FFA assistant treasurer.

Gerald's mother noted that the program had "benefitted all concerned." "It has meant a lot of responsibility and work for Gerald, but it has also been a good learning experience."

Gerald has recommended that his younger brother David take the program in his senior year, as it will make for "good teamwork," according to the youth.

Although the final judgements on the program will come after the first full year is completed, Erway and Spangler have been quite pleased with the response of ag cooperative education at Manheim.

"We certainly have happier students for the most part," Spangler commented, "the attendance has actually increased for those students involved and the interest has been running high."

Any new educational methods has its flaws and Erway confessed that the coop program had seemed a little "overwhelming" at first. "The students seemed somewhat frightened at the aspect of doing so much work, at the outside involvement for foreign to them, but they have adjusted well."

According to the advisor, developing the entire program was the hardest part of the whole educational attempt. "Fitting the pieces together wasn't easy and it took time, but it has been successful this far and we're hoping for more participation next year."

At least here in Pennsylvania, vocational agriculture education has taken a turn toward the future. Young people who were once confined to a physical building for an entire day are now able to learn first hand about agriculture production and business and are also contributing to community interest on a first hand basis.

AGRI-KING

CONGRATULATES

FFA YOUTH

AGRI-KING congratulates James Keller of East Berlin, PA for winning an FFA Contest for having the most accurate records in Adams County with this batch of AGRI-KING fed hogs.

PURCHASED ..... OCTOBER 25, 1975
SOLD ..... JANUARY 26, 1976
AVERAGE PURCHASE WEIGHT ..... 55 POUNDS
AVERAGE MARKET WEIGHT ..... 220 POUNDS
SELLING PRICE PER POUND ..... 51¾¢
AVERAGE GRAIN MIX PRICE PER POUND ..... 5½¢
COST PER POUND OF GAIN ..... 19¢

Through this period a virus hit James' hogs and they got scours. He treated them and was very pleased at how the hogs came right back on feed. Since there were no drugs in the feed, they responded quickly.

the perfect beginning...

Valuable calves need a clean and fast-gaining environment, totally free of disease and those sanitation problems so common to an indoor pen. The calf stall design should make it impossible for a calf to spread disease to other calves.

The New Martin
CALF STALLS

You can do more with MARTIN CALF STALLS to save your calves and be certain they realize their full potential. And you can do all of this most conveniently. Keeping our calf stall clean and sanitary is easier because of the one-piece steel sidewall construction—and the removable floor that lifts out for very thorough cleaning. Each stall comes complete with two buckets for feeding, a chain and a removable metal hayrack.

Place your order now for MARTIN CALF STALLS and know how easy it is to protect all of your valuable calves to give each one a perfect start.

Unhappily, when you apply conventional fertilizers, much of the phosphate is locked up through fixation in the soil.

How much of the phosphate you apply is actually used by your crops?

☐ Up to now, this has been fought by carefully placing the phosphate closer to the surface and near each plant. Trouble is, this leaves your phosphorus supply "high and dry" during the heat of the summer. ☐ Ortho solved this problem during the development of UNIPELS. A unique "phospho - nitric" process makes the phosphate in UNIPELS 100% available, yet makes it resist fixation regardless of how it's applied!

☐ And when you plow down UNIPELS in the fall, the phosphorus and other vital nutrients are down in the moisture zone where roots are most active in the hot, dry summer. ☐ Come see us soon about the year 'round benefits of fall fertilization with Ortho UNIPELS — the All-Season Fertilizer.

SUNGOLD KINGPIN PERCY BURKE 1569187

Good Plus (82) Production Qualified 5-75

Percy represents a cross between two outstanding bulls — Whirlhill Kingpin and Wis Burke Ideal. Percy has a special ability to sire well balanced and symmetrical udders, which is typical of the Wis Burke Ideal influence which he inherits. His daughters are average in stature with a proper balance between dairyness and strength. Percy can be used as an improver of feet and legs as they have proper set to the hocks and stand on correct feet. We are also pleased that Percy has the ability to increase butterfat test as well as high milk production, this combination making him one of the high dollar value bulls in the Holstein breed.

IMPROVED PURINA SOW CHOW

WITH AMINO ACID AND NUTRITIVE BALANCE

HELPS EMBRYOS LIVE

● EMBRYO MORTALITY = POOR LITTER SIZE

Less than 80 percent of the average sow's fertilized eggs survive the first 25 to 30 days after breeding. Additional embryos are lost throughout the remainder of the gestation period. There are many factors contributing to these losses, but proper balance of the required amino acids in the sow's ration is a crucial factor in helping embryos live.

● SOWS NEED AMINO ACIDS

Amino acids (building blocks of protein) are essential. They are essential because a sow can't synthesize them in adequate quantities to meet her requirements. Each amino acid requirement level is different. Their availability to her is also affected by other ingredients in the rations and the quality of each source ingredient.

It sounds complicated, and it is. That's why Purina research puts so much emphasis on determining the correct level of each essential amino acid. The research determined requirement levels are never divulged, but the results of the research are formulated in Purina Sow Chow.

It helps embryos live and thrive; hence, bigger and healthier litters. The Purina Sow Chow program can mean extra pigs for you.

● MORE MILK = BETTER PIGS

A sow's feed requirements change after she farrows. She needs a ration that will help her produce plenty of milk for her pigs while building up her body for the big job of producing another litter. The pounds her pigs put on during the first few weeks of life will be their most efficient gains. Purina Sow Chows are formulated to help her produce plenty of milk for her pigs, at the same time build up her body for the job ahead.

● SOWS NEED CONDITION, NOT FAT

Purina Sow Chow is formulated to give the sow the critical amino acids and nutrient balance to take care of her own body at the same time she is growing her embryos. Not only must the sow or gilt furnish nutrients to grow embryos (an amazing task in itself) but she must grow, maintain, and replenish her own body.

Sow Chow is also formulated to put her body in top condition, but at the same time, preventing excess fat buildup. A fat sow costs more to maintain, isn't as healthy and can have difficulty at farrowing

● KEEP FEED COSTS $$ DOWN $$

Mix one pound Sow Chow Concentrate with 4 pounds of your grain.

Or use Purina Sow Chow Complete.

MORE PIGS MEAN MORE PROFIT

● HOW TO FEED

BOARS: Feed as sole ration at the rate of 4-8 pounds per day depending on body condition and number of times a boar is used.

DEVELOPING GILTS: Hand feed as sole ration 6-8 pounds once a day depending on body condition.

SOWS AND GILTS:

Flushing: Feed an extra 2 pounds per head per day over the normal amount from 7-14 days before breeding until breeding. Then feed regular amount.

Gestation: Hand feed as sole ration 4-6 pounds once a day from breeding until 4 days before farrowing.

Lactation: Full feed in a self-feeder from 10 days after farrowing to weaning.

● HAND FEED GESTATING SOWS

Feeding Once Per Day Gives The Sow Operator An Opportunity to Inspect His Gestating Sows This Good Management Practice Takes Time, But Pays Big Dividends at Farrowing.

Home economics teacher faces challenge at Alternative School

By Sally Bair
Feature Writer

Bright sunshine streams in the windows of the home economics classroom, allowing a lovely view of rural Lancaster County. It is like almost any other home economics classroom, with a bright nutrition poster and splashes of fabric and other sewing notions.

A wringer washer and a treadle sewing machine give away the fact that this is no ordinary classroom. It is one of five classrooms in the Hinkletown Alternative School, part of the Garden Spot School District in eastern Lancaster County.

Mrs. Carol Landis Amico is the home economics teacher, and she presides over her classroom with obvious competence and a lot of sympathetic care. She says, "My work here is so different and so challenging I'm glad I got chosen to teach here."

The school encompasses sixth, seventh and eighth graders, and was founded by the district last year to offer an "alternative" to conservative members of the community who want a basic education. A large percentage of the student body comes from conservative Mennonite and Amish homes.

According to Dr. Robert Herr, director of the Hinkletown School, "The school board and administration felt there was a large number of people in the district paying their fair share of the educational tax dollar and not getting full advantage.

"In an effort to offer an education to all the people of the district, the Alternative School was established to give students an opportunity to choose between a parochial school and the public high school."

What they offer, Dr. Herr says, "is a basic, relevant education." He said that even though many students do terminate their education following their eighth year, they are encouraged to continue their education in a high school. "A number of them are going to high school, and will be as well prepared to move into ninth grade as students from public school."

One of the challenges Mrs. Amico refers to lies in the fact that most will not choose to go on. This is the last opportunity for formal education which many students will have.

So, she explains, "I teach them more advanced things. I think they are about a year ahead of public school. We must teach them the basics of what they need to know. We are preparing them for life."

This is one reason for the vocational-academic mix found at Hinkletown. Dr. Herr says the school meets "a real need since most vocational education starts in the ninth grade. We want students to learn and to like school." Herr is also chairman of Garden Spot's nine-member vocational agriculture department.

Academically students learn mathematic, language arts, social studies and science. In the vocational field, there is home economics, agriculture, horticulture, carpentry and cabinet making and power mechanics. In two trailers housed behind the school building students learn nursing and the use of factory sewing machines. There is also physical activity for students.

Mrs. Amico points out, "The Hinkletown School is the only one in the nation." Therefore there are no guidelines or textbooks to show just what should be taught or how to accomplish the teaching.

Mrs. Amico says, "I use my imagination, and get lots of ideas from books." An integral part of the teaching at Hinkletown is that each permanent teacher is required to visit each student's home through the course of the school year. In this way, Mrs. Amico says, "We get ideas from the parents." She makes a home visitation once a week. "I enjoy the opportunity of talking with the parents. They're interesting and some ideas are helpful."

Another source of curriculum guidance is an advisory board made up of six parents from representative areas of the district. Before she began her job, Mrs. Amico said she visited some of the board members and talked about the program.

Dr. Herr explained that the Board operates on a rotating basis. "We value the imput these people give. It is a very dedicated group of parents."

He added that the Department of Education was very helpful in building curriculum, and he said, "We use a lot of resource people." Field trips are also an important part of the program. He said, "We are a very community-related school."

In the months before she began actually teaching, Mrs. Amico said she did a lot of preparation. One thing she had to learn to do was sew on the treadle sewing machine, and learn to use the wringer washer.

One of the four main subject areas Mrs. Amico teaches is sewing and laundering. The projects differ according to the age of the student, but sixth graders usually do small projects and some hand sewing, and they sew an apron.

Seventh graders are taught to make pocketbooks, dolls or stuffed animals or any other likely project they select themselves, and sometimes work on a dress.

Eighth graders make dresses, but this is not a simple project. The style of dress favored by the student is not one for which you can use a ready-made pattern. As Mrs. Amico said, "They never buy dresses, and sometimes their parents have one way of doing construction which may differ from the method I teach."

The girls work from a very basic pattern which is altered to suit the style worn by the student. Skirts are either pleated or gathered, according to the desire of the student, and often alterations are worked by having the student bring in a dress of the desired style.

Mrs. Amico said, "We reuse patterns, and I hope to build up a pattern file so we have enough variety for all students."

In home economics they also study foods, including food preservation, nutrition information and food services and trades which shows the student some of the opportunities for employment outside the home. They work on meal planning and a balanced diet.

There is a child care unit, Mrs. Amico said, where students make toys, learn to work with infants and learn about baby-sitting. In one class younger brothers and sisters were invited and the girls got to practice on a ready-made group of younger children.

There is a housing unit which stresses the budgeting necessary in a home, and care and cleaning of homes.

Throughout all the projects, Mrs. Amico said, "runs a thread of consumer education."

Boys are given their chance in the home economics classroom as well. Mrs. Amico said she teaches boys everything from the operation of sewing machines to first aid. Two very popular projects with boys were sewing nail bags and making butcher aprons.

They had an opportunity to put the butcher aprons to use

A nutrition poster, bright and colorful, helps to teach healthy food habits.

Country Corner

Sunshine brings memories of spring

By MELISSA PIPER

Spring seemed to be hiding right around the corner this week and the warm weather and sunshine brought with it remembrances of a day last year, when winter finally left go of its icy grip and allowed the earth to be reborn once again.

It had been a long winter and I was quite anxious for spring to hurry along, bringing with it warmer weather and a little sun. But as I set off for an interview one day early last April, I was disappointed once again The day didn't look too promising with blankets of fog clinging closely to the ground. At least it was a little warmer though, and the thought of being outside for an interview was okay by me

As I pulled near the farmer's garage, gravel crunched loudly and before I had even opened the car door, I heard a revelry of barking from a dog I hadn't even seen.

Climbing from my car, I peered over the roof and saw the canine which had created so much noise. He was a beautiful long-haired dog with black and white symmetrical features. In fact his markings were so perfect it was difficult to believe that someone hadn't painted him. Walking over to his pen, he jumped and barked quite jubilantly as if anticipating something good would happen.

And almost forgetting my assignment, I put down my notebook and camera and began playing with the dog, coaxing him to whine in his playful way. For that brief minute it was just him and me enjoying a happiness only spring could bring.

The farmer I had come to interview stood framed against the barn door laughing at our antics and almost forgetting his work also.

Before I left the dog retire to a sunny spot in front of his dog house, the king-sized version of "Benji" jumped up to lick my face and slapped a muddy paw on my new denim jacket. For a second I was quite dismayed but realizing I had work to do, I left the stain sink in and ran towards the barn.

Not long afterwards the sun popped through the clouds and a gentle warmth spread over the countryside. And as I lifted my head towads the sky, I noticed that green velvety buds had burst open on the bare branches.

I guess the dog and I knew that something better had been in store for that first spring day and for a long time after I kept his pawprint on my jacket, just to remind me that spring isn't always as far away as it seems!

when Mrs. Amico helped the agriculture class slaughter a lamb. Students learned to cut, weigh and wrap the finished project. Mrs. Amico said the experience was very educational for all concerned.

She said, "Working with the boys is quite worthwhile. They were shy at first, but I related our work to them and tried to see it from their point of view. It was fun for them, and they were really proud to use the items they made."

Mrs. Amico believes there is a basic difference in the students who choose to attend the Hinkletown school from those who attend public school. "They are naturally quiet, and reticent and there is no discipline problem because they are really interested in learning."

She said, "They seem to have a lot more patience and are taught responsibility, and to discipline themselves. They believe in thrift and they take much better care of equipment than the average public school student.

Carol said that when her electric sewing machines were serviced after a year of use, she was told they were "like new." She attributes this to the care given them by the girls.

She says, The girls' personalities are different, more tempered. They still often surprise me with their manners and their sense of responsibility. They are more kind to each other and work together well with no rivalry."

Dr. Herr concurred in the evaluation of the kind of student they have. He said, "The teachers can spend time teaching, not keeping order. Any success of the school stems from the type of student, as well as the support of the Advisory Board and the fine attitude of the administration. And the students have IQ's equal to or better than any other school," he said.

Mrs. Amico is a graduate of The Pennsylvania State University with a degree in the College of Human Development. She did her student teaching in Collegeville, near her home, and worked on her practicum by making tape recordings of instructional material for blind persons, teaching them to cook safely and nutritiously. She resides with her husband Tom in New Holland.

Mrs. Amico is typical of the devoted staff of teachers at Hinkletown, which Dr. Herr characterizes as "the finest staff of teachers of any school, and place." There are three full time academic teachers, three full time vocational teachers plus two part-time vocational teachers, an art teacher and a music teacher.

The school has been "very well accepted" by the community, Dr. Herr said. And Mrs. Amico added, "The parents are pleased with it. Last year there were 79 students; this year there are 110 and next year there will be 126. And all of the positions could be filled by students from surrounding school districts who are interested in the program.There is a waiting list, however, within the district.

A great deal of the success of the concept must go to the teachers who are working hard to meet the special needs of the Alternative School. Mrs. Amico says, "I can't compare enough, and of course a large part is trial and error. This year is easier than last, and when I get through the third year I will feel more confident."

Through dedication and understanding the conservative students of the Garden Spot school district are being offered an "alternative" - a program which is sound academically and fulfills their need to be prepared vocationally when they complete their formal education.

Judy Burkholder (foreground), East Earl, and Alma Risser, East Earl, iron their projects in the home economics class at the Hinkletown Alternative School.

Farm Women Societies

Society 15

Farm Women Society 15 met recently at the home of Mrs. Elma Maule, Quarryville. Hostesses assisting here were Mary McLaughlin, Kathleen Groff and Sadie Greenleaf.

Speaker for the program was Harold Suter, driver education instructor at Solanco High School.

Trip committee chairlady, Kathryn Wagner, announced that a trip to the Three Bakers Theater would be on March 4. A trip is being planned to go to the Wisconsin Dells in June and to Hawaii in August.

Berks Co. Society 5

Eighteen members of Farm Women Group 5, met Monday night at the home of Mrs. Leroy Miller, Richland RD1.

Rhea Schoener, group president conducted the business meeting.

Final plans have been made for the Hoe-down to be held February 28 at the Stouchsburg Fire Hall, from 8 to 11 p.m. Music by "The Boyds" & caller Kenny Saul. Public is invited.

Also final preparations have been made for the food stand to be set up at the cow sale, March 4 at 11:00 a.m. at the Ray Seidel Farm, Richland, RD1.

Eleven members will attend the Spring Rally on May 12 at the Sheridan Motor Inn at Gettysburg.

A movie film "Choking" was then presented by Joan Hoover, she also demonstrated the techaique of saving a patient when choking.

Next month's meeting will be March 29 at the home of Mrs. Richard Moyer, Bernville R1.

Society 6

Society of Farm Women of Berks Co., Group 6, met recently at the home of Mrs. Merrill Hetrick, Limekiln. Twenty members were present and the roll call question was answered to the following, "What did your husband give you for Valentine's Day?" A silly fashion show was held and the following persons won prizes: Funniest - Jane Hauseman, Most Original - Janet Schlegel, Oldest Outfit - Dorothy Wagner, Most Useful - Linda Youse, Neatest - Pearl Hoffman, Oddest - Erma Bauer.

Members will serve refreshments Saturday, February 21, at the estate of Lester Leinbach's farm sale at 9 a.m.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Daniel Hauseman, Boyertown, R4, March 16.

Invitations have been sent to the eleven groups of the county to our tenth anniversary to be held Tuesday, April 6, at 8 p.m. in the Fleetwood Grange, Fleetwood, Pa.

Nine of our members are making plans to attend the Spring Rally, May 12, at the Sheraton Inn in Gettysburg.

The Constitution and By-laws were read by our president, Janet Schlegel. Refreshments were served by our hostess.

Society 18

Society 18 entertained Society 5 at the Farm & Home Center recently. Devotions were given by Mrs. Martin Swarr which included an original poem entitled "Friends."

The Spring Rally was discussed. Several women have decided to make it a two day trip to take in the sites of Historical Gettysburg.

County project was introduced. There were three agencies presented for deliberation. They include: Goodwill Industries, Welsh Mountain Clinic & St. Joseph Emergency Unit. The Society will make it a discussion at the March meeting.

Faye Stoner spoke on her trip to Germany. She also showed slides of her experience with the families she resided with while in that country.

Mrs. John Hess provided two vocal selections appropriate to the theme of the meeting.

Refreshments were an assortment of German desserts made with baking soda from Germany.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Harry Shepherdson. Each member is asked to bring a baby picture with them.

Number 18 will sew at the General Hospital from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Ladies Have You Heard?

Budget Home Furnishing Accessory You Can Sew Yourself

You don't have to destroy your budget to decorate your home. In fact, you can create great-looking accessories easily and economically when you realize the potential of sheets.

Today's sheets come in a wide variety of attractive colors and mix and match patterns, many with the look of famous fashion designs. The cost per square yard of sheeting is far less than that of almost any other fabric. And sheets are both durable and easy to clean.

Besides, you'll be able to point with price at the finished product, when you've done it yourself.

For example, you can turn the tables on your table settings by getting a tablecloth out of a sheet of bedspread.

- Measure the table's diameter. Add to that twice the length you want the cloth to drop down on the sides and one more inch for the hem.
- For a cloth up to 65 inches in diameter, you'll need a twin sheet; up to 80 inches a double sheet; up to 89 inches, a queensize; and up to 107 inches, kingisze.
- Fold the sheet in half lengthwise and then fold crosswise to form a rectangle four layers thick.
- Fold up one corner of the other side forming a triangle and rectangle combination with the open edges facing the side opposite the fold.
- Cut a non-stretchy cord to serve as a compass. Knot one end and pin with large corsage or hat pin to fabric. Tie a pencil on the other end. Length of cord should be half the diameter you want, plus one-half inch.
- Mark the outer edge of cloth and cut. Make a one-half inch hem.
- Use the extra fabric from the edges to make a set of matching napkins. Cut the fabric into squares of the size you want and press a one-fourth inch hem all around. Turn the hem another one-fourth inch and stitch.

Designer Fabric Panels New For Home Sewers

People in the sewing industry continue to offer new products to make sewing easier and more interesting.

Now you can buy designer original fabric panels with motifs for front and back of a shirt. These "engineered prints" are printed panels, usually 55 inches square, with large motifs designed for special placement on garments. Depending on the pattern style, size and layout, the finished garment will vary accordingly. The largest motif is usually placed on the center back.

Tailored shirts or tee shirts are most suitable for these print panels, but use your imagination to design your own one-of-a-kind garment. Look for styles with minimum fitting lines and darts so the motif will not be distorted.

You need buy only one panel for most women's sizes and men's small to medium sizes. Allow for an extra panel when cutting out men's large or extra-large sizes. Most tee shirts require only one panel, regardless of size. Any leftover yardage can be used for scarves, halters or head wraps.

The manufacturer of these panels advises prewashing the fabric to remove protective resins which can cause skipping stitches.

Berks Co. Society 9

The Society of Farm Women 9 of Amityville was held at the home of Gloria Rhoads, R2, Douglassville with nine members present. A motion was made to buy valentines to be sent to Hamburg State School and Hospital. Everybodys birthday party will be held March 3rd, 7 p.m. at Rummy's. A short meeting will follow. The group also decided to look for ideas on making a quilt to be chanced off. An invitation was received from Group 6 inviting us to their 10th Anniversary evening of entertainment at the Fleetwood Grange April 6, 1976 at 8 p.m. Four members from Group 9 will attend. The meeting was then adjourned followed by a program on "nutrition" where each member brings a covered dish in a paper bag. Prizes were awarded. Each member was also asked to wear red for valentines day or pay a fine.

The next meeting will be held at Rummy's and each member is to wear green for St. Patricks Day.

Society 12

Farm Women 12 met at the home of Mildred Kingdig, Wed., Feb. 11. In the morning the group sewed cancer pads and bed pads. At noon Mildred and Ethel Kindig served lunch to 11 members and 3 visitors. Fanny Mae Witmer had charge of devotions. She read Psalm (121) and also read a poem called ("Nobody" and "Thank You") Roll call was answered by using the word love in it. We voted in favor of Welsh Mt. Clinic for County project. Next meeting at Mrs. Francis Elsen, Garden Hill, Lancaster. Dessert will be first at 1 o'clock.

Agricultural Exports Create New Jobs

Increased exports in fiscal year 1973, of grain and soybeans alone, have meant well over 100,000 new jobs off the farm, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Population Growing Rapidly

About 80 million people a year are being added to the world's population, reports the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Society 8

Farm Women's Society 8 met recently in the home of Misses Anna Mae and Ruth Eby, Mt. Joy R1. Mrs. Kathryn Heisey vice-president, presided over the meeting in the absence of Mrs. Grace Bixler, Pres. Miss Anna Mae Eby led the ladies in singing "Faith of our Fathers" and "America the Beautiful."

Miss Ruth Eby presented the main feature on the program as she gave brief histories of dolls as early as 1790 and the years to follow. Elaborate doll houses were mentioned as being of special interest. Mrs. Lane a visitor and former resident of Mt. Joy showed a copy of the Mary Frances Sewing Book, having patterns for doll clothing many years ago. She brought a doll wearing clothing made from these patterns.

Alice Myers had devotional time and read "The Spirit of '76" for the Bicentennial year plus "Lincoln in Retrospect," an excerpt from "Lincoln in Prayer," ending with Ps. 8. Twenty seven members responded to Roll Call with Bible verses. Two visitors were present. Mary Grace Martin read minutes of the Jan. meeting and later played "Prelude" and "Traumerie" by Schumann on the piano. The Ways and Means committee reported that the bus going to the Spring Rally on May 12th will leave St. Marks Church, Mount Joy at 9 a.m. Contact Mrs. Wm. Heisey, Mt. Joy R1, Box 238, phone 426-3311 for further information. The committee in charge of Centennial proceedings gave special recognition to Mrs. Evelyn Rentzell in the form of a "Bicentennial Certificate of appreciation" for the blue taffeta dress trimmed with pink lace which she made.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mary Sarver, Mt. Joy.

At Least 50 Million More by 2000

By the year 2000, America will add 50 to 100 million people to the present 210 million population, predicts the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Society 3

Society of Farm Women 3 of Lancaster County met Sat., Feb. 21 at the Coleman Memorial Chapel, Brickerville. Mrs. Esther Petticoffer was hostess.

The business meeting was conducted by the president Mrs. John Edwards.

A contribution of $100 was given to the Ephrata Public Library to be used to buy childrens books. Mrs. Robert Gregory and Mrs. Gilbert Paul will serve on the committee to select the books from the list suggested by the library.

A $50 contribution was given to the Lancaster County Farm and Home Center. The Spring Rally of the Pennsylvania Society of Farm Women will be held in Gettysburg, May 12.

Members of Soc. No. 3 will sponsor a bus trip to New York City Radio City Music Hall to see the Easter Show, April 3.

The speaker was Trooper Dennis Gerhart from the Ephrata State Police Sub. Station. Trooper Gerhart serves with criminal Investigation. He spoke on Highway Safety.

The next meeting will be on March 20, at Salem Lutheran Church, Ephrata. Mrs. Lloyd Martin will be hostess. The program will be "Travels with Maria 77." Maria 77 is a former member of Soc. No. 3 who is a stewardess for United Airlines.

Society 31

Society of Farm Women 31 met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Rutt, Quarryville with Mrs. Tom Aaron acting as co-hostess.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Robert Clark, vice president. A report of the State Convention was given by Mrs. Donald Trimble. The members then voted to give $100 to Meals-on-Wheels and another $100 to the S. June Smith Center, Lanc.

It was then reported that a member, Mrs. Ben Wenger has volunteered to help the Am. Heart Association by helping in the "Heart Screening Day" April 10 in Lancaster.

Plans were made to serve food at two sales this month. Feb. 20 and Feb. 28.

Society 31 will be entertained by Society 13 Saturday, March 6 at 1:00 p.m. at the Farm and Home Center, Lancaster.

Our program for the evening included a doll collection shown by Mrs. Robert Denlinger of Ninepoints. Mrs. Denlinger's collection includes some 300 different dolls from which she selects only a portion of them to show. Some of the dolls are quite valuable and date back to the early 1800's.

Each member also added the evening by either showing or describing her own childhood doll.

The next meeting will be held Monday, March 15 at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Mark Risser, Holtwood. The program for the evening was on safety.

IMPORTANT NOTICE
For PP&L Residential Customers

PP&L doesn't want to see anyone go without electric service for non-payment of electric bills . . . especially over a communications problem that might have been easily resolved.

That's why we're offering our residential customers "Double Notice" protection.

It's a no-cost service that automatically sends a copy of PP&L's notice of potential action to terminate service to a friend, relative, clergyman, physician . . . any third party or agency the customer has selected who might have some insight into the problem. (The third party has no obligation to pay the customer's bill but hopefully will intercede on behalf of the customer so the problem may be resolved.)

The Double Notice service is designed primarily to protect those who may not understand the seriousness of the final notice . . . or, customers who may not receive our notices because they are not home much of the time. The final notice is the last request for payment before PP&L seeks permission from the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission to disconnect a customer's service.

Notifying a third party can be especially helpful to elderly or disabled persons who may be ill and living alone, or to persons with a language barrier.

If you could benefit from this service or want to become the third party for a friend, relative or neighbor, please return the coupon below. We'll send you more details with a Customer/Third Party signature form.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

All last summer I intended to stain the new wood in the utility room this winter, I found time. The other week I decided to start the job but at the last minute used paint instead. I looked over my paint supply in the attic and decided there was plenty of pink in a gallon container to complete the task. With three dark doors in the room, it didn't seem wise to stain the woodwork just so it would match the kitchen. Now that it is finished, the rest of the family likes it but they had their doubts at first.

Yesterday, I helped some of the ladies from our church sew at the Lancaster General Hospital. Some made new garmets and operating sheets. My job was mending rips and tears. While working on the sleeves that were cut in half and putting on new ties after they were cut off, one couldn't help but wonder under what conditions these clothes had to be "cut" for removal. Although, I don't really want to know. I'm content to repair them for someone else to wear.

xxx

The younger generation seems to be so mobile. They go from place to place quite easily but not without some heartaches, I'm sure. My daughter has lived in Seattle, Washington, almost four years and has learned to love the mountains with their skiing and snow-shoeing. She has bought a boat to sail on the lake which she lives beside and the ocean is nearby. Now, with her husband's promotion, they are moving to Indianapolis.

People say "Aren't you glad?" No, I'm really not happy as she will still be too far away to visit in one day and return in time to do the milking so I wish she could be where she likes it best

Even our son visited Haiti in the Caribbean and tells me the French speaking natives appeared to be quite poor in this rugged mountain country.

The Chester County Black & White Club held it's meeting at the home of Mr. & Mrs. George Thaczuk, Elverson recently.

The club talked about the events that were planned for the year. Then the club discussed about having a roller skating party in March.

Instead of doing the Hoards Dairymen cattle judging contest each member of the club talked on how they raised calves. The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served by Mrs. Thaczuk. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. & Mrs. Newton Evans, Spring City at 7:30. The Hoards Dairymen cattle judging contest will be judged.

Farm wife seeks consumer understanding

By MELISSA PIPER

HERSHEY - Appearance-wise Laura Heuser looks like any other farm woman and wife. Her face and arms are tanned a healthy golden color and her hair has been naturally bleached by hours in the sun. She has a pleasant smile and is genuinely charming to all she meets. But Mrs. Heuser's one attribute which makes her stand out among people is that she is an outspoken advocate of farmer's rights and presents her ideas with vigor and a convincing tone of voice - often tinged with her Michigan accent. During a speech at the National Peach Conference held here this week, Mrs. Heuser made firm her stand on agriculture and encouraged other farm women to become involved in changing the farmer's image.

Mrs. Heuser told the farm women that work must be done and soon if farmers are to receive their fair profit as well as survive. "As fruit growers you are often told what you will get as far as a price goes," Mrs. Heuser stated, but "no one buys products that way and it isn't fair."

The farm wife expressed adamately that the farmers image needed to be corrected as far as consumers were concerned. "Five years ago farmers had a rotten reputation," she exclaimed, "Today it isn't much better but it sure has improved."

"Urban consumers and especially legislators see the farmers as people too stupid to do their own marketing, so they feel a need to market our products without giving us a fair chance."

Mrs. Heuser facetiously chided the women present for not wearing calico dresses, "you know that you're ruining our image," she heckled, "people have that mental picture of farm wives and until we tell our story it will stay that way."

The farm wife has been quite interested in helping the urban consumer learn about agricultural production because in her words, "urban consumers have the vote and if they don't understand our needs think of the legislation that could be passed - not in our favor."

Also critical of the legislative action and "beauracrats," Mrs. Heuser has visited the governor of Michigan, several legislators and also made her way to the office of George Meany, as a director of the Ag Council of America. "We have to be more forceful and show these people that we are very capable of making our own decisions on marketing ag products," she said, her voice wavering with emotion, "if we don't the beauracrats will vaccum us to ruin."

"You've got to remember," she noted, "most urban consumers and legislators are agriculturally illiterate and they are making the decisions for us."

Mrs. Heuser called the farm wife "a very brave person" and encouraged the women to become involved with farming's story. "Farm women have had to be brave and although it means being scared to death at times - we proved that we have guts!"

"Set your priorities", she stated "and work diligently toward them," women shouldn't be colorless automatons and if we understand the needs then we can do a good job."

Leaning quietly against the podium, Mrs. Heuser concluded her remarks by stating, "we don't have much time and we must work for understanding and legislation before our freedoms get plucked away."

"I remember hearing that another bunch of rebels once staged a tea party to get people's attention and maybe that's what we need - a party of our own."

"Women were the first farmers you remember, it was the men who went hunting and we still have to do our part to survive."

Mrs. Heuser is the wife of a fruit grower in Michigan and helped to organize the American Agri-Women program to promote understanding of agriculture. She is also a member of several other ag and farm women associations and is currently on the board of directors for the Ag Council of America.

Mike Morton (left) representing the Ag Council of America looks over the program during the National Peach Conference with Gail McPherson, York County, and guest speaker, Laura Heuser.

York Lamb Club meets

A demonstration on tanning sheep hides, given by Laurie and Lisa Dobrosky and Donny Flory was the program at a recent York County 4-H Lamb Club meeting held at the 4-H Center near Bair Station.

Following the demonstration the President Linda Ebaugh, opened the meeting. She reminded the members to get their project books from their local clubs.

It was then discussed whether or not to attend the Peach Festival at Maple Lawn Farms and set up a booth to sell something promoting lamb. A motion was made and a committee appointed. A committee was appointed to plan the meetings for the coming years and the meeting was adjourned.

Home on the Range

In continuing with our bicentennial recipes we are featuring a recipe this week for "Potato Bags" - sent in by Mrs. LeRoy Kerschner from Berks County. We are also repeating a recipe much requested from our readers. It is Applesauce Custard Pie. And just one more granola recipe!

We are still trying to correct the recipe for the 100 year old Chocolate Cake. When printed it did not give the amount of cocoa. Hopefully this will be solved as soon as possible.

We invite our readers to be senting in either bicentennial or other recipes to share. But please include your name and address on all separate pages! Send to Recipes, Care of Lancaster Farming, 22 E. Main St., Lititz, PA.

Potato Bags

Make a dough similar to pie dough but with less shortening. Add a little baking powder and salt. Make a potato filling and let it cool. To make bags - put the filling into small sections of dough as you would for apple dumplings. Put the potato bags into boiling water and cook for 15 minutes. Remove and pour slightly browned melted butter over bags. Serve hot.

Applesauce Custard Pie

1 cup applesauce (unsweetened)
1 cup milk
½ cup sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon flour
1 teaspoon melted butter
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 unbaked pie shell

Put applesauce, cinnamon, melted butter, sugar and flour in a deep bowl. Beat eggs together in a separate bowl and add them to the milk and vanilla and mix well. Add to first mixture and beat until smooth. Pour into pie shell and bake for 45 minutes at 350-375 degrees.

Bible Cake

This recipe takes a lot of research so make sure you allow enough time for hunting the amounts before baking. A double check is wise!

Find out the number of sons Zebedee had with him while mending nets and you will have the number of cups of brown sugar to use.

Take the number of camels Abraham's oldest servant took on his journey to find Rebekah for a wife for Isaac and subtract the number of letters of an apostle to whom it was said: "Behold an Israelite in whom is no guile," and you will have the number of cups of sweet milk to use.

Take the number of fishes and divide the number of loaves when Jesus fed the 5000. This will give you the exact amount of flour in cups to use.

To find out the number of eggs, you take the number of days Paul stayed with Publicus at Melita. They must be well beaten.

Add the number of years Joshua lived, to the number of years he was sent by Moses to spy the land, when you subtract the number of fishes and disciples caught at the sea of Juberias and you have the correct amount of baking powder in spoons.

Last but not least, find out what Herod had sworn he would give the daughter of Herodias, then take 2 cups and fill each one with the given promise and you have the correct amount of each butter and lard.

If you want to check on the Biblical references here are the answers: 2 cups brown sugar, 2½ cups flour, 3 eggs, 1 cup sweet milk, 3 teaspoons baking powder, ½ cup butter and ½ cup lard.

Pork Chow Mein

A new and tasty way to serve pork. The recipe is provided as a courtesy by the Pork Industry Group.

1½ pounds pork cubes
½ teaspoon salt
1 large onion, cut in 8 wedges
½ cup water
1 small head of cabbage, shredded
1 can bean sprouts
one-third cup soy sauce
2 tablespoons corn starch
½ teaspoon ginger
chow mein noodles

Cut pork in ½ inch pieces and brown in large frying pan. Sprinkle with salt, add onion and water. Cover tightly and cook slowly for 45 minutes. Add cabbage and cook 10 minutes. Stir in bean sprouts. Blend soy sauce with cornstarch and ginger and gradually add to the pork mixture. Cook until thickened, stirring occasionally. Serve on chow mein noodles.

KENNETT SQUARE - Professor William R. Nelson, Jr., Extension Landscape Architect at the University of Illinois, will speak on "Landscape Principles for Residential Properties," on March 3 at Longwood Gardens. The lecture will be given in the Ballroom off Longwood's Main Conservatory. Admission will be by payment of the $1.00 day's admission fee to the gardens.

"Merely planting trees and shrubs is not landscaping," Professor Nelson says. Using slides, he will outline the practical step-by-step procedure for developing a landscape plan that will meet the needs of family members.

Right off the bat, you're going to say "oh, they're talking about early-maturing hybrids"

Not necessarily so

Because our research people worked long and hard to make all Funk's G-Hybrids start drying down before the others Consequently, we've gained a reputation for being drier at harvest

And remember, our stalks stay sturdy and strong, and stand right through the end

It's just that our hybrids don't come out of your fields all wet behind the ears

And that's going to save you headaches at harvest, moisture points at the elevator or fuel if you dry down in your own bin

So, if you're lookin' for hybrids that dry down fast regardless of maturity, turn to the ones that turn the tap on early Funk's G-Hybrids

You won't get turned off by the results

Farm women have educational meetings during peach convention

HERSHEY — Many of the farm women which attended the National Peach Convention held here this week were pleasantly surprised at the program which had been planned for them. While their male counterparts attended regular sessions on production methods, the women were treated to a number of educational talks and demonstrations which had been arranged by a York County farm wife - Mrs. Gail McPherson, New Park.

Mrs. McPherson was looking for more interesting convention programs for the women and did an excellent job in retaining a full slate of nationally known speakers and educators.

In keeping with an agricultural theme, three programs on different farming enterprises were held on Monday of this week. "The Cow Belles" consisting of Carol Erdmann and Burdette Zastrow from South Dakota spoke on beef and agricultural promotion methods. Bedecked in cowboy hats and fringed jackets, the gals offered many a suggestion to farm wives on promoting peaches and fruit growing.

Charlene Maust, Pa.'s Dairy Princess, also joined the program and spoke on milk and its benefits as well as the promotions used in selling milk as a commodity. Gail McPherson also arranged a three dimensional slide presentation on fruit growing in the state. Entitled "Seasons in the Sun," the program was also featured on Monday. Tuesday afternoon's speaker was Pat Leimbach, author of "A Thread of Blue Denim." The Ohio native spoke on celebrating life on the land.

Wednesday's program offered a series of three speeches given by individuals working with consumer education and agricultural promotions. Marion Goetz, managing editor of the Farm Wife News, addressed the ladies first and offered many suggestions for promoting agriculture through use of the mass media. Mrs. Goetz, gave the farm women an idea of how the different forms of the mass media operate and how they could best use these mediums for announcing meetings.

Mike Morton of the newly formed Ag Council of America followed Mrs. Goetz and related the principles used by the ACA to inform the public on agricultural issues.

One of the most successful attempts by the Ag Council has been the City-Farm Swap where families from the city spend a weekend on the farm and in return host farm families in the city. The program which has been carried out in New York and Chicago has been well received and has enabled farmers to voice their opinions.

Mrs. Laura Heuser, director of the Ag Council of America and the American Agri-Women, used her unique speaking ability to encourage farm wives to take up the battle for recognition and to help promote agriculture in an effective way.

The women were invited to attend many of the men's programs also along with traveling to tourist's attractions around the area.

Berks Society 1

At the February meeting of Berks Co. Society 1 held at the home of Anne Yanos, Mr. George Meiser, a teacher at the Wyomissing Area Middle School, showed slides and gave a lecture on some of the historical places in the Oley Valley. It was a very interesting presentation.

The business meeting followed. Nineteen members answered to roll call.

It was deicded to have a refreshment stand at the Hartman Sale on March 18th. starting at 10:30.

Members were reminded to send birthday cards to Sarah Schlegel, a member, who is still a patient at the Reading Rehabilitation Center.

Our first candy-making of Easter eggs will be February 16th and 17th. It was also decided to have our 1976 Christmas Party at the Exeter Restaurant.

An invitation was received from Group No. 6 to help celebrate their 10th. Anniversary Arpil 6. at the Fleetwood Grange Hall. Group 6 was started by a former member of Group 1.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Catherine Yanos.

Conservation program scheduled

The Berks County Conservation District and the Berks County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee will hold their annual dinner on Friday, March 26 at 7 p.m. in the dining hall at Kutztown State College.

The speaker will be Dr. Richard L. James, of the Schuylkill Valley Nature Center of Philadelphia. James is currently executive vice president of the Schuylkill Valley Nature Center for Enviromental Sciences and was formerly a biology instructor at Radnor Senior High School, Radnor.

Feed and waste seminar slated

A farmer from Georgia, discussing his experiences with converting animal waste into high quality feed and an engineer from Canada, telling of his research on sealed silos, will be featured at an all-day seminar scheduled at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center, Thursday, March 11. The Recycling Animal Waste and feed storage seminar sponsored by Weaver Star Silo, Inc., Myerstown, will start at 9:30 a.m.

Dr. A. G. Meiering, Engineering Professor, University of Guelp, Ontairo, Canada, will be the featured speaker on: "The Truth About Sealed Silos, Concrete vs Steel." Meiering's documented research report will center on oxygen controlled silos and deals with changes in total pressure in the silo as directly proportional to temperature changes outside the silo. His paper also compares concrete and steel silos.

Meiering was born and raised on a farm in West Germany and took advanced study in agriculture in Bonn as well as the Michigan State University. His research projects also include: testing of drier equipment, mechanization of sugar beet cultivation, composting of municipal waste, analysis of heat and mass transfer materials and development of milk flow sensor for the control of vacuum, pulse frequency and pulse duration in automated milking parlors.

He has written a total of about 60 publications and has been interviewed in newspapers, farm journals, radio, TV and farm press on the subject of silo leakage and odorless waste drying.

Samuel Hay, Jr., a dairyman turned beef producer from Covingtin Georgia, will discuss his experiences in recycling animal waste utilizing 40 percent manure, 54 percent cracked shelled corn and 15 percent silage or hay. This mixture is ensiled in an oxygen controlled silo for 10 days and is ready for feeding.

Lester A. Burdette, Extension Animal Scientist from Penn State University will discuss the topic: "Does It Pay To Feed The Corn Cob," and special remarks for farmers will be given by M. M. Smith, Lancaster County Ag. Agent.

Along with a special demonstration of recording heat trnasfer of concrete vs steel, a free lunch will be provided with registration in the morning and door prizes will close the seminar at 3 p.m. Farmers from all counties in the LANCASTER FARMING area are invited to attend.

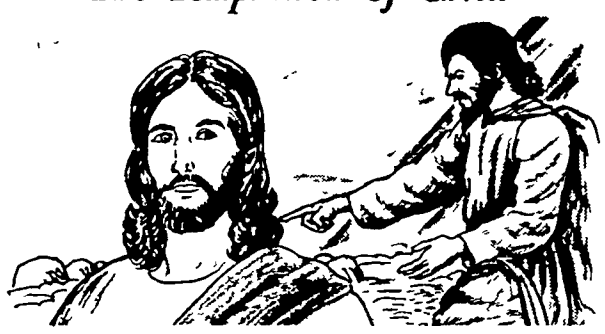
The Temptation Of Christ



Then was Jesus led up of the spirit into the wilderness to be tempted of the devil

And when he had fasted forty days and forty nights, he was afterward an hungered

Bluebirds echo spring's arrival

One of the most beautiful bird songs of spring is the gently warbled "chur-wi" of the Eastern bluebird. The arrival of this harbinger of spring to Lancaster County in mid March puts joy in the hearts of many people. This shy member of the thrush family has a bright blue head, back, wings and tail and a robin red breast.

In spite of its popularity the bluebird has become less common over the last several decades. The main reason for its decline is because of competition for nesting sites with the more aggressive starlings and house sparrows. The bluebird's favorite habitats are old orchards and weedy fields near clumps of trees or woodlots, away from buildings where the sparrows and starlings abound.

You can attract bluebirds and help increase their numbers by providing specially built nesting boxes in the proper habitat.

The box should be six inches by six and three quarter inches by ten inches high. There must be small venilation holes near the roof and small drainage holes in the floor. The entrance must be one and half inches in diameter, centered six inches above the floor. The small entrance will discourage stalings from entering. The lid or roof should be fastened by hinges and a hook so that the house can be readily cleaned during winter and pesky sparrows can be evicted.

In mid March place the box four or five feet above the ground in a weedy open area, perhaps twenty or more feet from trees and bushes. This close to the ground will discourage house sparrows from attempting to nest in the box. If the nest box is established away from all buildings, starlings will be less apt to take over the box. House wrens will nest in bluebird houses but they generally return north six weeks later than bluebirds. If the box is placed ten feet above the ground it may attract tree swallows which normally nest near or over water.

During the winter the boxes must be cleaned and put away until the next March. If the houses cannot be taken down, plug the entrance to stop pest birds and mice from getting established. When bluebirds do nest on your property they will reward you greatly by their beautiful plumage, delightful song and by the tremendous amounts of insects they consume while they raise their two broods of youngsters.

Agway drivers honored

Awards for completing a year of driving without a preventable accident were presented to five Agway truck operators from this area at a dinner February 19, 1976 at Reading, Pa.

Drivers honored and their years of accident-free driving are: at Lebanon Store: Mark J. Blauch - 1 yr. Marvin S. Wampler - 1 yr. Adam Struphar - 13 yrs. Russell M. Hitz - 3 yrs. and Otto Shifflet - 2 yrs. from Hanoverdale Store.

These men are among the 1,725 drivers throughout Agway who were recognized for safe driving records of one to 30 years. This represents about two-thirds of Agway's 2,450 full time drivers. More than half the drivers honored this year are receiving awards for five or more years of safe driving.

Agway drivers covered more than 57 million miles in 1975, operating vehicles from small service vans to tractor-trailers.

Agway's accident rate is 7.7 accidents per million miles, compared with the national average of 13.9 accidents per million miles for all fleets reporting such statistics to the National Safety Council.

Awards were presented by Agway area manager Art Cochran and petroleum district manager Don Stas.

Paul H. Jones of Syracuse, N.Y. represented the Agway Safety Department.

'Spirit of Red Fever' tour undertaken;

National machinery show, tractor pull and IHC factory seen

The spacious Kentucky Fairgrounds and Exposition Center hosted the National Farm Machinery Show earlier this month, tours to which were sponsored by International dealerships throughout the Northeast. The C. B. Hoober dealership at Intercourse represented the Lancaster County area.

A topsy-turvy tractor at the National Farm Machinery Show demonstrated the strength of some new tractor cabs on the market.

By DIETER KRIEG

LOUISVILLE - The Bicentennial Year may bring out slogans for "The Spirit of '76," and Valentine's Day may turn one's thoughts to big, red hearts, but for five days during mid-February the rage for thousands of people in this town was "The Spirit of Red Fever."

The International Harvester Company was sponsoring trips for interested parties from the Midwest and Northeast to see the National Farm Machinery Show, a National Invitational Tractor Pull, and IH's sprawling manufacturing facilities - all of which are located here near the home of the world-famous Kentucky Derby.

With IH and 130 individual dealerships taking care of travel arrangements, dealers, their employees and farmers, came to this northern Kentucky city in groups. Taking care of tour preparations for Lancaster County and some surrounding areas was the C.B. Hoober dealership of Intercourse which recently received the Company's 'XL' award for outstanding service and facilities.

Flying out of Harrisburg, the C.B. Hoober group arrived in Louisville by mid-morning on Friday, Feb. 13. Representatives from International Harvester were on hand to familiarize visitors with itineraries and provide them with distinctive IH caps made exclusively for this occasion.

The first stop on the tour was IH's Louisville plant, sprawled out on 145 acres, of which 38 are under roof. Employing 5,500 workers when operating at full capacity, the facility produces over 40 basic tractor models and a variety of other products such as gears and crankshafts for use in other tractors.

Friday evening found visitors dining in one of the exquisite dining rooms of the Executive Inn, followed by a turf-tearing and smoke-spouting tractor pulling contest in the large arena of the Kentucky Exposition Center. It was a National Invitational Pull to which only top winners from all across the U.S. and Canada could come. Representing southeastern Pennsylvania was Mike Wright of New Freedom. A consistent winner at local pulls, the York Countian was entered in the 15,000 stock class. To the dismay of IH fans, particularly those from Pennsylvania, Wright's tractor engine gave out under the strain and had to be pulled off the track. It was not exactly an unusual occurrence as several other top drivers found themselves in the same predicament and out of reach of the prize money and trophy. As the announcer said: "A tough break, but let's hear it for him anyway, because, you know, these drivers have to be good to make it to this pull in the first place."

The National Farm Machinery Show was an attraction for farmers from all over the East Coast as well as the Midwest. Held in huge exhibition halls which flank the large arena of the Kentucky Exposition Center, the displays drew nothing but favorable comments from Pennsylvania visitors who were amazed and impressed with the orderliness and spaciousness of it all. A larger and more recenly built structure than Pennsylvania's Farm Show Building, the facilities are still being expanded. Rows of equipment were lined up to allow ample room for visitors to pass by or browse around, while passageways were almost free of unsightly litter.

Churchill Downs, the home of the world-famous Kentucky Derby, was one of the nearby tourist attractions many visitors to Louisville couldn't resist passing up.

IH tour

trip it was hard to tell what impressed participants to the "Spirit of Red Fever Tour" most. Talk centered on all three main attractions.

The IH plant, for example, provided visitors with an insight as to what's involved in the manufacturing world - not just the mere production aspect, but also the psychological side, since foundry and machine work is totally different from jobs tour members had. Purchased from the War Assets Administration in 1946, IH's Louisville foundry is the largest in the IH family and has an iron melt capacity of close to 1,000 tons per day. It's forge shop has 14 hot metal forage presses, including one of the three largest in the world an 8,000-ton press which stands 31 feet tall and weighs 1.4 million pounds. It's purpose is to produce crank shafts from steel bars heated to 2,300 degrees Fahrenheit.

Equipped with 3,000 machine tools, the Louisville plant has a top output of about 1050 tons of castings and forgings per day. -It covers the spectrum of casting, forging, machining, welding, heat treating, assembling, and testing. There are six tractor assembly lines and one engine assembly line. Vehicles and parts shipped from the plant are valued at more than $300-million annually. On the other hand, labor is high, material costs of $10-million per year are going up and recently installed innovations for environmental protection cost the firm $6-million.

Products from the Louisville plant are reportedly used in virtually every International Harvester product throughout the Company. Finished tractors are shipped to approximately 20 countries and all across the U.S.

Tractor pull enthusiasts marveled as much at the coordination of the big Louisville Pull as they did at the tractor pull itself. No sooner was one fellow done pulling a sled down the 300-foot indoor track, that graders and packers were giving the track a quick "once-over" and the next puller was ready to go. The 15,000-seat arena was filled to capacity with partisan crowds cheering favorite drivers and tractors, Fans could be easily identified by the color of their caps, many of which were frantically waved in the smoke-filled stands when a favorite came roaring down the track.

The C.B. Hoober group was on hand for the Friday night pulls in which 24 stock tractors in the 12,000-pound class were entered. There was also a contest for garden tractors and modified machines, but it was the stock classes which enthused the fans most of all. Thirteen of the 12,000-pound stock tractors wore the IH colors and-or insignia. When the roaring, screaming, and smoke belching was all over, an International stood first, followed by a John Deere and then an Allis-Chalmers. Saturday night's pull was also won by an IH in a field of 24 competitors. The top prize in that class was $2,000, with each competitor receiving at least $100. The total purse offered for the two-night event exceeded $50,000.

Some of the equipment seen in Louisville was new to Lancaster County farmers since much of it was geared for midwestern applications. Nevertheless, the trend to bigger and heavier machines has caught a foothold in Pennsylvania as well. C.B. "Bud" Hoober illustrated that point earlier in the week when he pulled a huge, 14-ton Steiger tractor into the workshop during his Open House activities, announcing that it was the seventh his dealership had sold since July of 1975.

Machinery, tractors, and a huge factory - they were all a part of the "Spirit of Red Fever Tour," the first such event undertaken by the Albany Region of the International Harvester Company.

What's New

With the new Badger Feed Box, cattlemen can unload on-the-go to really save time with feeding chores. Fenceline discharge from a full 14-inch wide cross conveyor on this new Feed Box gets feeding done in a jiffy, without climbing off the tractor seat. Two models, both standard PTO powered, permit operators to feed up to 200 bushels in one trip.

The Badger Feed Box is multi-purpose. Use it in hauling forage, carrying corn from picker-sheller, feeding grain, or moving wheat and silage. It's built to fit right into nearly every materials handling setup. The solidly constructed box on a single axle makes it one of the easiest to maneuver of the tractor-drawn items on the farm.

Model BN 915 will hold 150 bushels, while model BN 920 has a capacity of 200 bushels. Both models have left-hand discharge. Discharge height is 48 inches, and provides ample clearance for all feed bunks. Overall height of the Badger Feed Box is 77 inches. A removable back panel is standard on both models.

For more information about Badger Feed Boxes, write: Badger Northland Inc., Kaukauna, Wisc. Badger Northland, a subsidiary of Massey-Ferguson, manufactures and markets a complete line of forage and feed handling equipment.

Water Detector

Weil's Detex compound turns red in the presence of water. Smeared on the end of a gauge pole, it will not only indicate the presence of water in the bottom of a petroleum products tank, but also the amount of water in inches.

A companion product, Detex Gasoline Finder, is also offered by Weil Service Products Corporation, 2434 West Fletcher Street, Chicago, Illinois. Gasoline Finder reveals the presence of gasoline in water. Both products are shown on Weil's Bulletin DN-15.

Supplemental Iron For Pigs

CHICAGO, Ill - An important innovation in swine nutrition that can mean less labor and added profit for commercial hog producers has been introduced and will be marketed by the Wayne Feed Division of Allied Mills, Inc. according to an announcement from Merle J. Brinegar, vice president for Marketing of the Chicago-based agribusiness firm.

The product, called Brood 'N Iron, is a new form of supplemental iron which can be fed to the sow, eliminating the need for iron injections to baby pigs.

In discussing the new product, Dr. A. J. "Al" Svajgr, manager of Wayne Swine Research and the man behind Brood 'N Iron, said that the major benefits from the produce are:

1. Consistently high hemoglobin levels in baby pigs, even without iron injections.
2. Two-tenths of a pound heavier birth weights.
3. An increase in the liver storage of iron in pigs at birth.
4. Increased iron levels in the blood plasma of both sows and pigs.
5. And, it performs a breakthrough by raising the iron content of the sow's milk.

Nature has developed several high sophisticated barriers which prevent iron quantities of ordinary iron from getting through to the sow's milk supply. Brood 'N Iron, though, breaks this barrier because of a patented chelating process which attaches the iron to a biological complex of amino acids and proteins."

"Baby pigs need the extra iron they get from Brood 'N Iron," said Svajgr. "If they don't get it the pigs will have depressed iron levels by the end of their first week of life. After two or three weeks of life their hemoglobin level will drop even further without additional iron. Furthermore, the pig's resistance level to ever-present scour-producing bacteria is dangerously low at this time."

"Feeding sows this new product can mean extra weight and vigor at birth and more live pigs at weaning. Brood 'N Iron pigs are better able to withstand the stresses of commercial hog production and do it in less time and with less feed without the stress and bother of having to use an iron syringe," he concluded.

Kerstetter encouraging direct marketing

GETTYSBURG - Farmers can gain a larger share of the consumer dollar if they enter the market directly themselves, Pennsylvania Agriculture Raymond J. Kerstetter said recently.

Addressing a Roadside Marketing Conference at the Sheraton Inn here, Kerstetter noted that "our small farmers have a difficult time competing in today's marketplace.

"The requirements of the big chains also have affected our smaller eastern food processors," said Kerstetter, whom he described as being forced out of business by the preference of big chains for large suppliers from the west.

"As the small processor disappeared," said Kerstetter, "so did many of the outlets that our small farmers had been supplying over the years."

This shift in marketing patterns, Kerstetter explained, has resulted in small eastern farmers receiving a declining share of the food dollar.

"In 1973," Kerstetter noted, "the farm-retail price spread increased by 20 percent over the previous year. The latest available information shows that the price spread for 1975 was up about eight percent." The price spread is the difference between what the farmer gets for his product and what the consumer has to pay.

Part of the reason for increased retail prices has been the rising costs of packaging, transportation, energy, labor and other inputs in the massive marketing system, explained Kerstetter.

"Obviously," said the secretary, "if farmers are to get a greater share of the food dollar and consumers hope to pay less, more food must be moved by some method other than the conventional marketing system with all its built-in high costs."

One answer, he noted, is direct marketing from farmer to consumer. "And you people in roadside marketing are very familiar with this type of marketing. It's the form of marketing you have already moved to in order to get a profit that permits you to stay on the farm and at the same time enjoy some of the creature comforts other folks have."

Citing a recent survey by the Pennsylvania Agriculture Department's Bureau of Markets, Kerstetter said the total volume of business done by roadside markets in Pennsylvania amounts to about $40 million. Adding farmers markets, milk jugger operations and pick-your-own marketing, Kerstetter estimated that direct marketing in Pennsylvania accounts for $114 million in retail food sales.

The retail value of all food sold in the commonwealth is estimated at $2 bullion. Comparing these two figures, Kerstetter told his audience, "you can see there's still a lot of room for expansion for direct marketing sales."

MCFA surpasses membership goal

The annual Membership Victory Banquet of the Mongtomery County Farmers Association (MCFA) was held February 7 at the Dinner Bell Restaurant, New Berlinville, Pa. The banquet was attended by membership committee members and their spouses.

Membership chairman, Leroy Derstine, Souderton, congratulated all committee members on their hard work. The 1976 membership goal was 354 new and renewed memberships and the MCFA final membership count was 356.

The Montgomery County Farmers Association is a division of the Pennsylvania Farmers Association (PFA), and Eugene McDowell, regional director of PFA, spoke to the group briefly on achieving their goal.

The spring meeting of the MCFA will be held in March at the Montgomery County 4-H Center. This will be an open meeting for all members. A safety and first-aid program will be presented and a farm poster contest will be held for the children of PFA members.

Crop report presented

Milk production

HARRISBURG — Milk production in Pennsylvania during January totaled 585 million pounds, up three percent from a year ago, according to the Crop Reporting Service.

The number of milk cows in the commonwealth during January was 709,000 head, up three percent from a year earlier

United States milk production during January is estimated at 9,545 million pounds, up two percent from a year earlier. U.S. milk production per cow averaged 862 pounds, 25 pounds more than a year ago and 34 pounds above January 1974. Milk cows on farms totaled 11,079,000 head, down one percent from a year earlier and two percent below January 1974.

Poultry output

Poultry production in the commonwealth took a slight dip for the week ending Feb. 14 with placements of broiler chicks at 1,314,000, according to the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service.

Placements were two percent below the previous week, but five percent above the corresponding week a year earlier. Average placements during the past ten weeks were ten percent above a year earlier.

In the 21 key poultry producing states, placements were 61,847,000, one percent above the previous week and eight percent above the same week a year earlier. Average placements during the past ten weeks were nine percent above a year ago.

Potato storage

Potatoes in Pennsylvania storages on February 1, 1976, totaled 1,550,000 hundredweight (cwt.), down 815,000 cwt. or 34 percent from a year ago, according to the Crop Reporting Service.

Only the February 1, 1973 stocks of 1,450,000 cwt. from the flood-stricken 1972 crop is lower for the date in the record beginning February 1, 1950.

Disappearance since harvest of 1975 crop potatoes totals 5,265,000 cwt., and compares with 4,995,000 cwt. for that period a year earlier.

Stocks of potatoes held in storage by growers, local dealers and processors in the nation's fall production areas totaled 125.4 million cwt. on February 1, 1976. This was 7.9 million cwt. or six percent less than the record 133.2 million cwt. on hand a year earlier, but 18 8 million cwt. more than on hand February 1, 1974.

By regions February 1 stocks in eight eastern states were down 29 percent from a year ago; eight central states, down 24 percent; and in the eight western states, up eight percent, largely because of greater stocks in Oregon and Washington

National disappearance of fall 1975 crop potatoes totaled 142.5 million cwt., down six percent from the 152.2 million cwt. moved a year earlier between harvest and February 1

Fertilizer program scheduled

The Hinkletown Adult Farmer Program sponsored by the Eastern Lancaster County School District will hold a meeting on Wednesday evening, March 10 to answer questions on fertilizer. Speaker for the evening will be William Brubaker. Brubaker, a well known area resident and fertilizer dealer has a vast background of knowledge of these and other fertilizer problems facing the farmer.

Area farmers with fertilizer questions are invited to the Hinkletown Alternative School on March 10, 1976 at 7:30 p.m. for a discussion on fertilizers. The Hinkletown School is located east of Hinkletown and north of Route 322 on Wanner Road.

ATTENTION DAIRYMEN

You can improve PALATABILITY, increase PRODUCTION and PROFIT by adding ALFA—ZYME to your dairy feed. It takes only 100 pounds of ALFA—ZYME added to a ton of feed to obtain these results. Since ALFA—ZYME costs about the same as 100 pounds of feed, it does not cost any more to feed ALFA—ZYME than if you do not feed it.

Lately, have you been reading or hearing about the importance of enzymes, lactic acids, yeast, in feeding rations? ALFA—ZYME is the result of growing these beneficial organisms. How? Through a natural fermentation process, these organisms, grow and multiply millions of times. They are added to the feed in a live and active state. No period of activation is required before they go to work, as in dry preparations. These very beneficial organisms keep the digestive system working at top efficiency-at all times.

What's New

CB Radio

OCEANSIDE, Calif - A new 23 channel, solid state, transceiver for mobile or marine CB use, that features variable RF gain control, is available from Siltronix, Oceanside, California.

The new unit, called Mohawk, has a full five watts of power input and includes an automatic noise limiter switch on the front panel. A high quality meter indicates relative output power on transmit and relative strength of received signal. A transmit indicator light is built into the meter.

An external speaker jack is provided with a selector switch that permits the speaker to be used either for public address or to monitor the receiver. Squelch and audio frequency gain controls are also included.

Mohawk transceivers come complete with mircophone, screw-on microphone connector and mobile mounting bracket. Units operate with positive or negative ground.

Retail price of the new Mohawk AM transceivers is $169.95. Units are available from all authorized Siltronix dealers. For further information contact Siltronix, a division of Cubic Corporation, 330 Via El Centro, Oceanside, California 92054; phone (714) 757-8860.

School appropriations disputed

HARRISBURG - Local school districts will save $14.2 million the first year the proposed new school code is in effect, according to the fiscal note to H.B. 770 issued last week by the House Appropriations Committee. The announcement was made jointly by Rep. James J. A. Gallagher, chairman of the House Education Committee and Rep. Stephen Wojdak, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

Further, the fiscal note projected that this savings will diminish only slightly in future years with a projected $11.3 million savings to local school districts during the fifth year the code is in effect.

This figure is in sharp contrast to dire predicitions by the Pennsylvania School Boards Association that the new code would cost districts anywhere from $140 to $206 million a year.

The fiscal note shows that the new code would cost the Commonwealth (as opposed to local districts) $8.3 million the first year, for a net savings to the taxpayers of $5.9 million. Projections for the fifth year of operation show an increased cost to the Commonwealth (as opposed to local districts) of $12.2 million for a net projected increase of $944,000 in 1981-82.

The February 18 fiscal note takes into consideration recent House Education Committee amendments to H.B. 770, many of which reduced the overall cost of the legislation to local school districts, according to Gallagher.

The House Education Committee eliminated a requirement that every district hire a dental hygienist (which would have cost $6 million annually, with a start-up cost of $1.7 million).

The committee restored the retirement age to 65 an earlier draft of the bill would have changed the age at which a school entity could retire an employe from 65 to 70, thereby costing districts an estimated $1.4 million a year.

The committee amended Section 2961 to provide more reimbursement to school districts for contracted transportation services. While this would result in increased costs to the Commonwealth, it would result in an equal increase in income to school districts.

The committee also changed its earlier amendement providing sick leave benefits to substitutes. The change makes it clear that benefits accrue only to long-term substitutes (20 consecutive work days or more), thereby decreasing an earlier cost estimate of $1.3 million a year, to $33,750.

The bill now goes to the floor of the House of Representatives for consideration.

GOOD WORD from the Bible

By loyalty and faithfulness iniquity is atoned for, and by the fear of the Lord a man avoids evil. When a man's ways please the Lord, he makes even his enemies to be at peace with him.

Proverbs 16: 6-7

BICENTENNIAL BYPATHS

On February 6, 1776, William Hooper of North Carolina sent an urgent letter to his native province in North Carolina to alert the leaders of an impending British attack. It would be important to leave no stone unturned in the preparation of the colony for an invasion He concluded his letter with the wish that "God may have mercy on (this) Tory city."

Extension agents appointed

Aggie Norman

Anges D. Arnold-Norman has been appointed to The Pennsylvania State University's Cooperative Extension Service staff as assistant Extension agent working with home economics in Lancaster County.

Dr. Thomas B. King, associate dean for Extension, who announced the appointment, said she began her educational duties January 2.

A graduate of Lebanon Catholic High School, she received a bachelor of science degree in home economics .education from Penn State in May, 1975. As an undergraduate she was a member of the campus 4-H recreation team, secretary of the Dairy Science Club, and a student member of the American Home Economics Association.

She has been employed for two summers as an urban 4-H Aide, and one summer as a summer assistant in home economics for the Extension Service in Lebanon County. She was a national winner in the 4-H Foods-Nutrition Awards Program in 1972.

A member of the American Home Economics Association, she is the daughter of Mrs. Mary M. Arnold, Route2, Lebanon. Her husband, David R. Norman, is an associate Extension agent in York County.

Linda L. Franz has also been appointed to The Pennsylvania State University's Cooperative Extension Service staff as assistant Extension Agent, working with youth in Lancaster County.

A graduate of Fillmore Central School, Fillmore, New York, she received a bachelor of science degree in secondary education from State University College at Buffalo, Buffalo, New York.

Linda Franz

Prior to her present appointment, Mrs. Franz was employed as a 4-H assistant for the Lancaster County Cooperative Extension Service. She has also been a teacher aide at the Lincoln Junior High School and a community action program youth counselor.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Brooks Main, Fillmore, New York, she is married to William J. Franz III. They make their home in Lancaster.

In Lancaster County both agents are associated with County Extension Director M. M. Smith, Mrs. Doris W. Thomas, Extension agent, associate Extension agents Jay W. Irwin, N. Alan Bair, and Arnold G. Lueck, and Linda Luedk-Stoner, nutrition assistant. Their offices are located at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road, Lancaster.

GENETIC TRAIT SUMMARY

The Genetic Trait Summary (GTS) is believed to be the first publication of type data evaluated by the herdmate comparison method.

The GTS is a comparative ranking of 505 sires derived from the evaluation of the conformation of 120,865 cows in 3,268 herds. The objective of this evaluation is to determine the pattern of traits which each sire will transmit to his future progeny when used widely.

The data summarized in this report was gathered as part of the ABS Genetic Mating Service (GMS) Program. Individual cows are coded in each of 11 conformation catagories by trained professional evaluators. The primary purpose for this evaluation of the structure of the cow is the recommendation of mating sires to produce the best possible calf from that cow.

The GMS Program is a computerized sire recommendation program giving the very best 1st and 2nd mating sire choice for each cow based on her conformation data and the transmitting pattern of the sires.

For GMS evaluation and Volume I of the GTS contact your local ABS Representative.

York DHIA MONTHLY REPORT

JANUARY

The high herd for January was Avalong Farms, Inc., York R7 with 50.9 pounds of milk and 2.10 fat on 42.7 Holsteins tested in February. Second high is Avalong's with their January test of 2.04 pounds of fat and 50.2 pounds of milk and third is Robert Stewart, Airville with 47.8 pounds of milk and 1.95 pounds of fat on 40 Holstein cows. A number of December tests were not on the December report due to slow Christmas handling.

The high cow was Goldie, a registered 5 year old Holstein owned by David Stewart, Delta with 24,230 pounds of milk and 965 pounds of fat in 305 days. Second high is Angelo, another cow in the David Stewart herd with 21,927 pounds of milk and 895 pounds of fat.

It's an Ag-fact

It's an ag-fact. North American farmers are eight or nine times more efficient than their counterparts in Russia. Each North American farm worker produces enough to feed three score or more people; while the Russian farm worker feeds only seven.

Rohrer named chairman

ISMP's Young Cooperators meet

STRASBURG — A 35-year-old Lancaster County dairyman was recently elected chairman of a select group of young dairy farmers.

Charles H. Rohrer, who with his wife Kay and brother Allan operate a 55-cow dairy farm at Paradise R1, was named 1976 chairman of the Young Cooperator Consultant Committee. Donald B Trimble, Peach Bottom R2, was elected vice chairman and Geary E. Shade, Alexandria R1, Pa , was elected secretary.

The YCCC members are an honor group of 21 to 35-year-old members of Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative. Each year about 20 young dairymen from throughout Inter-State's six-state area compete for the five positions on the committee. Serving three-year terms on the committee, membership is maintained at 15 members.

The young dairymen find the Young Cooperator Program a way in which they can learn more about the cooperative structure and at the same time develop leadership abilities to help them better serve their cooperative.

At the recent meeting held at Historic Strasburg, the committee discussed ways in which they can play a bigger role in the cooperative's operation. They also proposed changes and improvements in the annual Young Cooperator Day program held with other member cooperatives of Pennmarva at Hunt Valley, Md.

Addressing the young dairymen and their wives were Daniel L. Martin, Manheim, vice president of Inter-State, and Dr. James E. Honan, Inter-State's general manager.

Martin updated the committee on milk marketing policies the board is studying along with a review of current prices and information concerning state and federal milk hearings. He told the dairymen milk sales are increasing, largely a result of the Order 4 advertising and promotion program funded by more than 90 percent of the Order 4 dairymen.

These programs, noted Martin, are increasing Class I sales, particularly in the Philadelphia area. He told the dairymen their continued support of the program is necessary if high Class I utilizations are to be realized in the future.

Dr. Honan, noting recent changes in the Philadelphia milk market, assured the dairymen that they are guaranteed markets for all their milk. In fact, said Dr. Honan, we are presently looking for additional milk to fulfill both existing and growing future needs.

The new chairman of the Young Cooperator Consultant Committee was also recently honored when the Pennsylvania Jaycees named Rohrer the state's Outstanding Young Farmer of the Year. The outgoing secretary, Robert E. Smith, York Springs, placed second in the state Jaycee competition. The newly-elected secretary, Shade, placed third in the Outstanding Young Farmer competition in 1973.

Amos Rudderow, Moorestown, N.J., has served as chairman of the committee for the past year. While presiding over the recent meeting in Strasburg, he called upon the 1975 Outstanding Young Cooperator couple, David and Barbara Stewart, Delta R1, and the runner-up couple, Geary and Judy Shade, to report on the National Milk Producers' Federation annual meeting they attended in November at New Orleans. In addition, John and Jane Barley, Conestoga R2, reported on the American Institute of Cooperation annual meeting they attended at the University of Michigan.

Pesticide classes set

The Ephrata Area Adult Farmers will hold a series of meetings on pesticide safety for applicator certification.

The course cost is seven dollars. This includes the Penn State correspondence course which serves as reference.

The meetings are designed to prepare individuals for certification examinations. Various pesticide topics will be covered such as, how to use pesticides safely, storage, disposing of pesticides. Also included will be calibration and equipment adjustment to mention just a few of the areas covered.

Class will be held in the Ag. Dept. of the Ephrata Sr. High School. Dates for the course will be March 2nd, 9th and the 18th. Time is 7:45 p.m., refreshments will be served. Advance registration is necessary. Call Charles E. Ackley 733-7961, Adult instructor.

Ag-safety Tip

The week of April 4, 1976, has been designated National Rural Health Week. Health and safety are closely allied. A regular medical checkup is as important as proper operating procedures in a total farm or ranch safety program.

ABC breeders recognized

Five dairymen from the Bucks, Montgomery, and eastern Berks County area were honored recently for having high producing herds this past year. They received their certificates of merit at the twelfth annual District I meeting for Atlantic Breeders Cooperative which was held earlier this month at the Palm-Schwenkfelder Church.

Those recognized for their achievements were:

Harold Halteman, Telford R1; Rodger Wagner, Oley R1; Walter Wurster, Ottsville R1; Clifford Moyer, Perkasie R1; William Tyson, Perkasie R1.

All herds were at least 15 per cent above the state average for butterfat last year, while at least two-thirds of the cows in these herds are progeny of Atlantic sires. The awards were presented by Ed Sauder, Atlantic's Field Supervisor for this area.

Reports by District I Director Harold Haldeman of Danboro, Pa., and management representative Willis Ritchey, service manager informed members that 1975 was a very successful business year for Atlantic. The service program was up-dated with the entire area divided into 66 units and all farmer-members can now use WATS numbers to call toll-free for AI service. Atlantic sires maintained their rating among the nation's best for transmitting profitable traits, Ritchey said.

Service Technicians provided almost 200,000 first services, and semen sales reached an all-time high. Barns were completed to provide new isolation quarters and house up to 50 more bulls, and young sires were used more extensively than in previous years.

A 25-minute movie, "Dial 800," was shown to help members see the beneficial traits being transmitted by several Atlantic sires. The film depicted a farm situation where an Atlantic member is consulting with a Technician about proper use of bulls for each mating in his herd.

Members present voted for District representatives for the coming year. Election results will be announced in the next issue of the Cooperative's monthly newsletter, since more than one meeting is held in most of Atlantic's 16 Districts.

The farmer is the only man in our economy who buys everything he buys at retail, sells everything he sells at wholesale, and pays the freight both ways.

Clifford Moyer, Harold Halteman and Roger Wagner were among the dairymen recently recognized for meritorious achievement at the ABC District 1 annual meeting.

Agway truckers get awards

Awards for completing a year of driving without a preventable accident were presented to 22 Agway truck operators from this area at a dinner in York on February 19.

Drivers honored and their years of accident-free driving are:

Lancaster Store

Wilbur B. Shultz, 6; Vernon Frankhouser, 10.

New Holland Store

Donald B. Groff, 7; Stephen M. Kurtz, 8; E. Phares Martin, 10.

Quarryville Store

Wayne M. Carrigan, 3; Harvey J. Walton, 4; Donald R. Carrigan, 5; Melvin L. Hollinger, 5; W. Verne Anderson, 12.

Lancaster Petroleum

Carl Groff, 3; Glenn Hassel, 3; Paul A. Kauffman, 3; John Petersheim, 4; Kenneth Bradford, 6; Mervin Weaver, 7; Edward G. McMullen, 8; S. Roy Hollinger, 10; Mark Burkholder, 13; Clair Shimp, 13; Morgan B. Zook, 13; H. Paul Huber, 14.

These men are among the 1,725 drivers throughout Agway who were recognized for safe driving records of one to 30 years. This represents about two-thirds of Agway's 2,450 full-time drivers. More than half the drivers honored this year are receiving awards for five or more years of safe driving.

Agway drivers covered more than 57 million miles in 1975, operating vehicles from small service vans to tractor-trailers.

Agway's accident rate is 7.7 accidents per million miles, compared with the national average of 13.9 accidents per million miles for all fleets reporting such statistics to the National Safety Council.

Awards were presented by Agway area manager James Waters and petroleum district manager Robert Sowerbrower.

David E. Rose of Syracuse, N. Y. represented the Agway Safety Department.

Feed grains exports may increase over the year

WASHINGTON - Feed grain disappearance in 1975-76 likely will be some 14 to 16 percent above last year's 172 million short tons. The current expansion in U. S. livestock and poultry feeding and the projected record volume of exports should use up most of the increase in market supplies.

Lower feed grain prices in relation to livestock and poultry product prices have enabled feeders to begin to expand their operations. Feeding in October-December totaled 41 million tons, about the same as a year earlier. An estimated 125-133 million short tons of grains will be used for domestic feeding in 1975-76, 9-16 percent more than in 1974-75. Feed grain exports in 1975-76 likely will be in the record high range of 48-52 million short tons, 21-23 percent more than the 39 million exported in 1974-75. Exports totaled 15 million tons in October-December, the heaviest quarterly movement ever.

Farmers indicated as of January 1 that they intend to plant almost 81 million acres to corn in 1976, 4 percent more than in 1975, and a total of 126 million acres to the four feed grains (corn, sorghum, oats, and barley), 2 percent more than in 1975. These intentions suggest that another large crop may be in the making this year - if weather is normal.

Prices of No. 2 yellow corn at Chicago in early February were around $2.68 per bushel, about 35 cents below a year ago but a little higher than the harvest lows last fall. Between now and spring planting, there could be some further modest price strength because of stepped-up domestic feeding and the continued heavy export pace. The season-average price for 1975 crop corn received by farmers is currently estimated at about $2 per bushel, compared with around $3.00 last year. Prospects for 1976 crops yet to be planted in the spring, they will influence the final outcome for 1975 crop corn prices.

Corn stocks in all positions January 1 totaled 4.4 billion bushels, a fifth more than a year earlier but nearly as much as 2 years ago. Corn disappearance during October-December 1975 was 1.7 billion bushels, 11 percent more than in the same quarter of 1974. Domestic feed use at 1.14 billion bushels was little different from a year earlier. Exports of 525 million bushels were about two-thirds. Domestic feeding in 1975-76 is projected to increase 11-18 percent and exports may be up 20-30 percent. Total disappearance likely will be only slightly less than 1975 production of 5.8 billion bushels, which would result in a continued small carryover this fall at around 500-600 million bushels.

Stocks of sorghum on January 1, at 476 million bushels, were up a fourth from a year earlier, and October-December 1975 disappearance was 317 million bushels, 3 percent more than in the same 1974 quarter. Minimal carryover stocks are again expected this fall because of strong feed and export demand.

Stocks of barley on January 1 totaled 277 million bushels, a fifth larger than a year earlier. July-December 1975 disappearance of 191 million bushels was down 8 percent because of lower feed demand and exports.

Oat use in July-December 1975 was off 6 percent; beginning supplies were down slightly, and oat prices have been high relative to other feed grains.

High-protein feeding in 1975-76 is expected to approach the previous record 20 million tons as soybean supplies are large and soybean meal prices favor liberal use of protein in feed formulas.

Hay consumption declined in May-December, mostly due to mild weather last fall. But increased use and continued strong prices are seen for January-April because of the cold weather in the East and dry conditions in the West.

Three special topics are discussed in the February Feed Situation:

An ERS grain economist summarizes the results of a recent USDA survey pertaining to U. S. farm costs of producing 1974 corn, sorghum, and barley crops.

Domestic feed demand is a major influence on corn price movements once the supply is determined. Two ERS analysts identify variables that are associated with January-March feed demand for corn (second article of a continuing series). They estimate January-March 1976 corn feeding at around 13 percent above last year's low volume.

Major changes are occurring in the marketing structure of the U.S. barley industry. An ERS grain economist reports farmer sales to country elevators continue to be the major initial market outlet for barley. But producer-maltster contracts are gaining popularity.

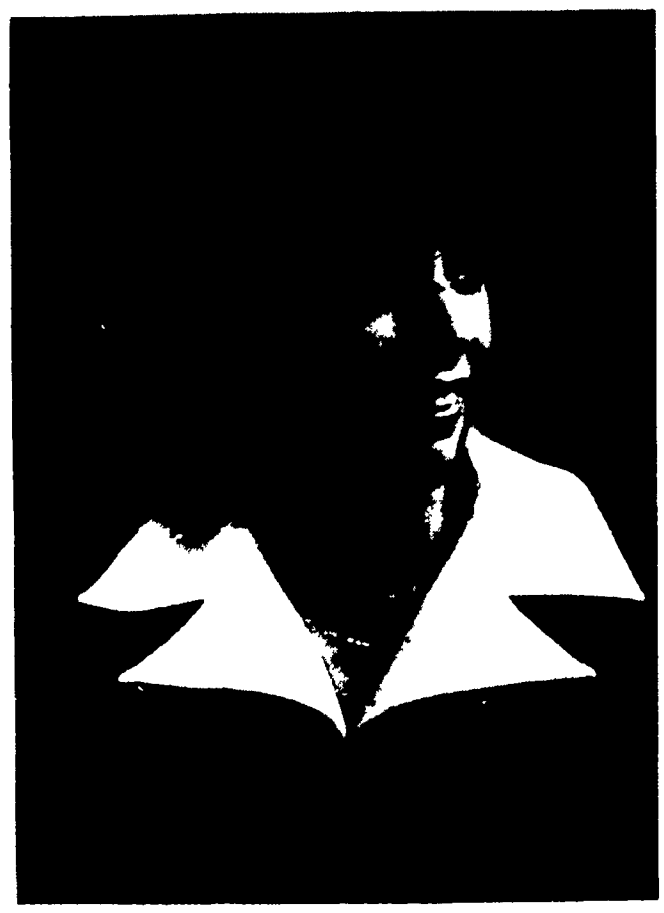
Toys for Special Days

Keep a special box out of sight to make a child's dark days fun. James E. Van Horn, Extension family life specialist at The Pennsylvania State University, suggests bringing out the box on rainy days when the child is ill. Store some of the extra Christmas toys, puzzles and games in the box. Buttons, bright scraps of cloth and paper, crayons and tiny cars and dolls appeal to the bored or ill child. Inexpensive books to look at, old magazines to cut with blunt scissors, or large beads to string will amuse the child on dull days.

Angus queen named

The Pennsylvania Angus Association held its second annual Queen contest at the 1976 Farm Show. Judges for the event were Bart Glass, Millbrook New York, Mrs. Sydney K. Stoner, Lewisberry Penna.; and John L. Fretz, Zionsville Penna.



Karen McCullough - 1976 Pa. Angus Queen

The contestants this year were Kathy Sunday, York County; Terry Lynn Dixon, York County; Ann Holcombe, Berks County; and Karen McCullough, Mercer County. The judges chose for runner-up, Terry Lynn Dixon. Miss Dixon will take over the duties of Queen if for some reason the 1976 Queen is unable to reign. The Penna. Angus Queen for 1976 is Karen McCullough.

Karen lives at R4, Mercer Pa. and has been showing Angus steers for the last several years. She has also been on the Mercer County 4-H Livestock Judging team and on the Pa. FFA Meats Team.

Karen will receive a complete western outfit which she will be expected to wear at all Angus functions. She also will receive a $50 savings bond.

GO Zero Concord FROM TEAT TO TANK!

NEW MODEL 70 s
Zero Concord
TWIN-VACUUM PIPELINE
MILKING SYSTEM
-WITH COW MONITOR
It's a combination of a new, revolutionary pipeline milking machine and the ZERO Completely-Automated Vacuum Bulk Milk Cooler.

The ZERO CONCORD is the only system that provides stable milking vacuum at the teat end — in parlor or stanchion barn — with a low or high, short or long, pipeline — and without injecting air into the milker units to move the milk Only with stable vacuum and no air injection can you hope to reduce leucocyte counts up to 65% — increase milk production as much as 20% — and prevent off-flavor and rancid milk

The safe, stable vacuum is made possible by a patented, scientific principle TWIN-VACUUM whereby one vacuum milks the cows, and a different vacuum moves the milk through a separate pipeline into the bulk tank In addition — thanks to ZERO's patented SPATTER-SPRAY Automatic Washer and new, improved, high-capacity, transparent milker unit — you have built-in, "push-button", visible self-cleaning and sanitizing of the entire system — without disassembling And there are many other advantages

Century farms to receive certification

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Raymond J. Kerstetter last week (Feb. 23) formed a Credentials Committee to award Century Farm certificates to farmers whose farms have been owned by the same family for at least 100 years.

"In this Bicentennial Year," Kerstetter wrote to his four appointees, "the program will provide a means of recognition for a segment of Pennsylvania's heritage of which we can all be proud."

Besides Kerstetter, members of the committee are, Col. Oran K. Henderson, deputy director for Administration in the Bicentennial Commission; William Wewer, executive director for the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission; Mary Harris, special assistant to the Governor; and J. Luther Snyder, master of the Pennsylvania State Grange.

In the early fall of 1975, the Department of Agriculture began soliciting applications for Century Farm certificates.

"We have had a good response," said Kerstetter. "To date, we have received more than 200 applications. Some of them describe farms that have been in the same family since the American Revolution. In some cases, farms were provided as payment for service in the army. In other cases, we find enterprising Revolutionary War veterans selling their horses to purchase a tract in the wilderness. The stories are fascinating and we hope we can bring them to light in this Bicentennial Year."

The job of the Credentials Committee will be to review and approve applications for the Century Farm certificates. The committee will also consider making historical markers available to eligible farms.

Eastern Pa. hog farmers elect 1976 officers

The Eastern Pennsylvania Pork Producers reorganized at their annual meeting held at the Oley Valley Vo-Tech School, electing Dennis Cooper, Lenhartsville, as their new president. Cooper took over the reins from retiring president John Turn of Kempton.

The other officers elected are Paul Bittner, Germansville Rt. 1, vice-president; Howard Shelly, Zionsville, secretary; Ed Oswald, Slatington, treasurer; and Paul Gansinger, Kutztown, financial secretary.

Glen Keene, animal science professor of Penn State was the principle speaker at the annual meeting. Keene listed priorities of concern to the operating farmers. He stated the growing complexities of government regulations and the time taken from productive labor and management as number one. He urged farmers to band together to voice their priorities and point out the needs of Agriculture.

Choosing Quilted Fabric

When buying a quilted fabric, check its backing, reminds Mrs. Ruth Ann Wilson, Extension clothing and textiles specialist at The Pennsylvania State University. If the backing is strong and long-lasting, such as tricot or muslin, the garment won't need to be lined. But other backings, such as knitted acetate or those with a papery feel, do require a lining., The material used in the batting will help determine the care of the garment. Most quilted fabrics are machine washable and dryable. But polyester batting will require less care than cotton.

Nat'l. food commission proposed

WASHINGTON — Bills troduced in the House and nate this month propose e establishments of a tional Commission on od Marketing and Pricing. imilar measures were ady to be dropped into the opper by Rep. Joseph P. igorito (D. - Pa.) and Sen. ubert Humphrey (D. - linn.).

Sponsors of the proposals re hopeful that the Commission idea will be an cceptable substitute for .R. 9182, a House bill by Rep. Edward Mezvinsky (D. - Iowa) which proposes to require annual reports to Congress by USDA, Justice and the FTC on the make-up, competitiveness, and anti-trust implications of the food industry. Hearings on H.R. 9182 were held recently by the House Judiciary Subcommittee on Monopolies and Commercial Law. This bill would provide $1 million a year to the FTC for a five-year study on the structure of the food industry.

Opponents to the Mezvinsky bill argue that the proposal is a senseless duplication of effort on the part of three federal regulatory agencies which is sure to bring unwarranted hardship upon numerous segments of the food industry.

The National Commission on Food Marketing is not a new idea. A similar Commission was active in the mid-1960's under the Johnson Administration. It was composed, as is the proposed one, of members of Congress and the public. The Commission would have a professional staff to assist in investigations and in public hearings, and would be authorized for only 18 months. Sponsors say another advantage of the Commission would be its objectivity. They argue that both Justice and the FTC have demonstrated clearly that they lack the objectivity, training and competence in agricultural economics to plan, prepare and carry out such a study.

Public 'meat inspectors' invited

Consumers and other interested persons are welcome to attend the U.S. Department of Agriculture's (USDA) National Advisory Committee on Meat and Poultry Inspection meeting in Washington March 4.

The session will be held in Room 5221 of the USDA South Building at 14th and Independence Streets and will start at 9 a.m., according to the agency's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

The agency will include discussions on net weight, nitrites, the USDA Consumer Representation Plan, technical animal fat, and the departmental study of meat, poultry and egg inspection.

Persons wishing to provide the committee with written comments may do so at any time either before or after the meeting. Additional information may be obtained from James K. Payne, Room 4349, South Building, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250 (telephone: (202) 447-6313).

School boards aren't satisfied

HARRISBURG - Richard C. Harris, president of the Pennsylvania School Boards Association (PSBA), recently urged that the proposed new School Code be recommitted to committee for further study by the General Assembly.

Harris noted that the House Appropriations Committee had released the bill (HB 770) with a claimed annual savings to local school districts. However, he pointed out that PSBA estimates still indicate that annual cost increases in excess of $100 million per year are likely as the bill now stands.

The school directors' spokesman said that recent amendments to the bill had removed more than $60 million annually in likely costs. These amendments were largely through association efforts, and he commended the committee for finally recognizing the problems that were corrected by these amendments. Harris indicated that several key issues still remain that have large costs tied to them, and other issues remain that affect local control of the schools.

The cost estimates of the Department of Education and the Appropriations Committee are in sharp contrast to cost estimates that are being furnished to PSBA headquarters. A northwest school district of 2,100 students indicates an increased cost in excess of $225,000 yearly. A southeast school district of 4,000 students reports an increased cost of more than $350,000 yearly. The local school district of the chief sponsor of the bill reports a cost increase of more than $400,000.

"These scattered preliminary reports," Harris said, "suggest that considerably more time should be spent in studying the effects of this proposal by local school districts before any final action by the General Assembly. The public has a right to know how this will affect their taxes and their local schools."

The proposed new 475-page body of law has already been amended more than 300 times since it was introduced last spring. The new version of the bill has been available less than two weeks. Additional amendments are expected to be proposed when the bill hits the House floor.

Egg firm cited

WASHINGTON - The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) today announced that Sherwood Egg Farm, Galilee, Pa., has been placed on 2 years probation and fined $500 for processing egg products without continous USDA inspection.

Officials of USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service (AMS), which administers the mandatory egg products inspection activity, said that legal action was brought against the shell egg packer for illegally breaking and freezing egg products. The Egg Products Inspection Act of 1970 requires continuous government inspection of any plant processing egg products. This means that all facilities and sanitary practices in these plants must be approved and operations must be under the supervision of a licensed federal or state inspector at all times.

On Feb. 4, 1976, a representative of Sherwood Egg Farm appeared before the U.S. District Court, Scranton, Pa., and entered a plea of guilty to two counts of processing egg products without continuous inspection during 1975.

ABC District II dairymen honored

he Chester-Delaware dairymen were honored having high producing s this past year at the th annual District 2 ting for Atlantic eders Cooperative bers held February 19 The Stone Barn, near tham, Pa.

ceiving Certificates of it for having top Dairy d Improvement ciation averages were: rew Stoltzfus, R1, gantown; Earl Weir, R2, hranville; John S. ltzfus, R1, Atglen; moore Farm, Chatham; am P. Moore, Chatham; rge Lamborn, R1, ingham; Vernon Ruth, Spring City; Floyd er, Spring City; and ner Mast, R1, kesburg.

l herds were at least 15 cent above the state rage for butterfat last year, while at least two-thirds of the cows in these herds are progeny of Atlantic sires. The awards were presented by Edwin Sauder, Atlantic's field supervisor for this area.

Reports by District 2 Director William P. Moore of Chatham, and management representative Willis Ritchey, service manager, informed members that 1975 was a very successful business year for Atlantic. The service program was updated with the entire area divided into 66 units and all farmer-members can now use WATS numbers to call toll-free of A1 service. Atlantic sires maintained their rating among the nation's best for transmitting profitable traits Ritchey said.

Service Technicians provided almost 200,000 first services, and semen sales reached an all-time high. Barns were completed to provide new isolation quarters and house up to 50 more bulls, and young sires were used more extensively than in previous years.

A 25-minute movie, "Dial 800," was shown to help members see the beneficial traits being transmitted by several Atlantic sires. The film depicted a farm situation where an Atlantic member is consulting with a Technician about proper use of bulls for each mating in herd.

Members present voted for District representatives for the coming year. Election results will be announced in the next issue of the Cooperative's monthly newsletter, since more than one meeting is held in most of Atlantic's 16 Districts.

Tobacco stocks enormous

WASHINGTON - Stocks of leaf tobacco in the United States and in Puerto Rico totaled 4.7 billion pounds (farm-sales-weight) as of Jan. 1, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) announced last week. The total, based on quarterly reports of dealers and manufacturers, was 280 million pounds larger than a year ago.

Domestic flue-cured and burley stocks were above the Jan. 1, 1975 totals by 226 million and 32 million pounds respectively, while the combined inventory of foreign grown flue-cured and burley tobaccos rose 36 million pounds to a record high of 207 million pounds.

Foreign cigar leaf tobacco stocks showed a gain of 6 million pounds.

Stocks of leaf tobacco under government loan as of Jan. 1 totaled about 402.5 million pounds, a gain of 118.7 million pounds from a year ago, reflecting larger deliveries of the 1975 flue-cured and burley crops. These loan stocks were divided as follows: flue-cured, 357.8 million pounds; burley, 41.7 million; fire-cured, .4 million; dark air-cured, .01 million; and cigar leaf; 2.6 million.

USDA's Quarterly Stocks Report containing detailed tobacco stocks information will be available in late February. Copies may be obtained from the Tobacco Division, Agricultural Marketing Service, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Check Your Drying Methods

Bath rugs or mats that have polyurethane foam, polyester or cotton backing can be tumble dried, says Mrs. Ruth Ann Wilson, Extension clothing and textiles specialist at The Pennsylvania State University. Articles containing foam rubber or latex should be air dried. When heated, foam rubber materials can, under certain circumstances, produce fire by spontaneous combustion.

TOP FARMERS WILL NOT WANT TO MISS THESE SPEAKERS!

FROM CANADA: DR. A. G. MEIERING

Dr. A. G. Meiering, Engineering Professor, University of Guelph, Ontario, Canada, will be the featured speaker on: "The Truth About Sealed Silos: Concrete vs Steel." Meiering's documented research report will center on Oxygen Controlled Silos and deals with changes in total pressure in the silo as directly proportional to temperature changes outside the silo. His paper also compared concrete and steel silos.

FROM GEORGIA: MR. SAMUEL HAY, JR.

Samuel Hay, Jr., a dairyman turned beef producer from Covington Georgia, will discuss his experiences in recycling animal waste utilizing 40 percent manure, 45 percent cracked shelled corn and 15 percent silage or hay. This mixture is ensiled in an oxygen controlled silo for 10 days and is ready for feeding.

FROM PENN STATE: DR. LESTER A. BURDETTE

Lester A. Burdette, Extension Animal Scientist from the Pennsylvania State University will discuss the topic: "Does It Pay To Feed The Corn Cob?"

Get the most feed value out of your hay with Beacon Hay Pre-Serv*

You get more milk per ton of hay when you treat your hay with Beacon Hay Pre-Serv. Hay Pre-Serv lets you cut hay as much as 26 hours earlier, at moisture levels up to 25%.

This means a larger hay crop, with less leaf loss and shattering, and less risk of weather damage. Hay Pre-Serv is easily applied to baled, chopped or stacked hay and prevents mold, spoilage, oxidation and excessive heating.

You get better color, improved palatability and more digestible nutrients in every ton of hay you cut.

If you grow succulent forage crops, make the most of them with Beacon Silage Pre-Serv.* With Silage Pre-Serv you can harvest at moisture levels from 40 to 70%, and get as much as 30% more feeding value per ton of roughage.

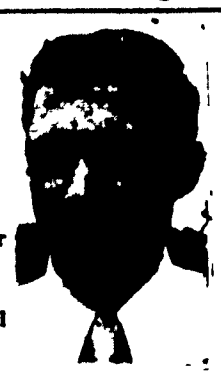
FACTS FOR DAIRYMEN



by N. Alan Bair
Associate County Agricultural Agent

For most farmers, manure management has come a long way from the pitchfork-wheelbarrow-spreader daily routine. We have made questionable progress from an economic and environmental standpoint, but we have certainly multiplied the alternatives and investment!

You can afford to "take care of" the manure your animals produce. Properly handled, manure is a very valuable product of your livestock operation. The N, P and K value alone is worth about $110 per year per cow as plant food. This is not even considering the values for trace elements and organic matter.

To most dairymen, most of the manure system is already planned and in operation. You have made the decisions about what gutter cleaner, scraper, gutter design, floor and consistancy (semi-solid, slurry or liquid) manure you are going to handle. Since storage seems to be a necessity in an environmentally and managerally sound system, the remaining decision is what type of storage. Storage is generally the most costly part of the system.

Manure storage could mean several things: a walled stacking area, an underground covered pit, an aboveground silo type structure or an earthen bank pond-type structure. All types can be successfully managed - each with their own advantages.

To assure public safety and to minimize risks to the environment, all manure storages must meet certain design requirements. Before investing in a manure storage, be sure the structure meets these conditions:

- Structurally Sound - Design and construction must be such that the impoundment will be able to withstand stress imposed when storage is full.

- Impervious - Construction materials must be of such quality that a reasonable level of impermeability can be achieved. This can be achieved in a manure storage structure by using concrete, steel, asphalt, plastic or fine textured soil.

- Protection From Unauthorized Acts By Third Parties - Due to creation of an "attractive nusiance" as defined by the courts with regards to owner liability with farm ponds, fencing or some other means to decrease possibility of entrance into the storage by unauthorized persons is required. This would include drain values protection on above ground storages.

- Adequate Freeboard - All impoundments must be managed in such a way as to maintain a minimum of a 2-ft. freeboard from a normal full level. This freeboard is for the protection of the owner as well as the environment in the event of a hard downpour.

Before making the final decision on which manure storage to use on your farm, in addition to the above points also consider the volume required, method of removal, equipment investment, and potential expansion. A wise decision will include looking at all of the alternatives and getting some professional advice.

Easter Egg

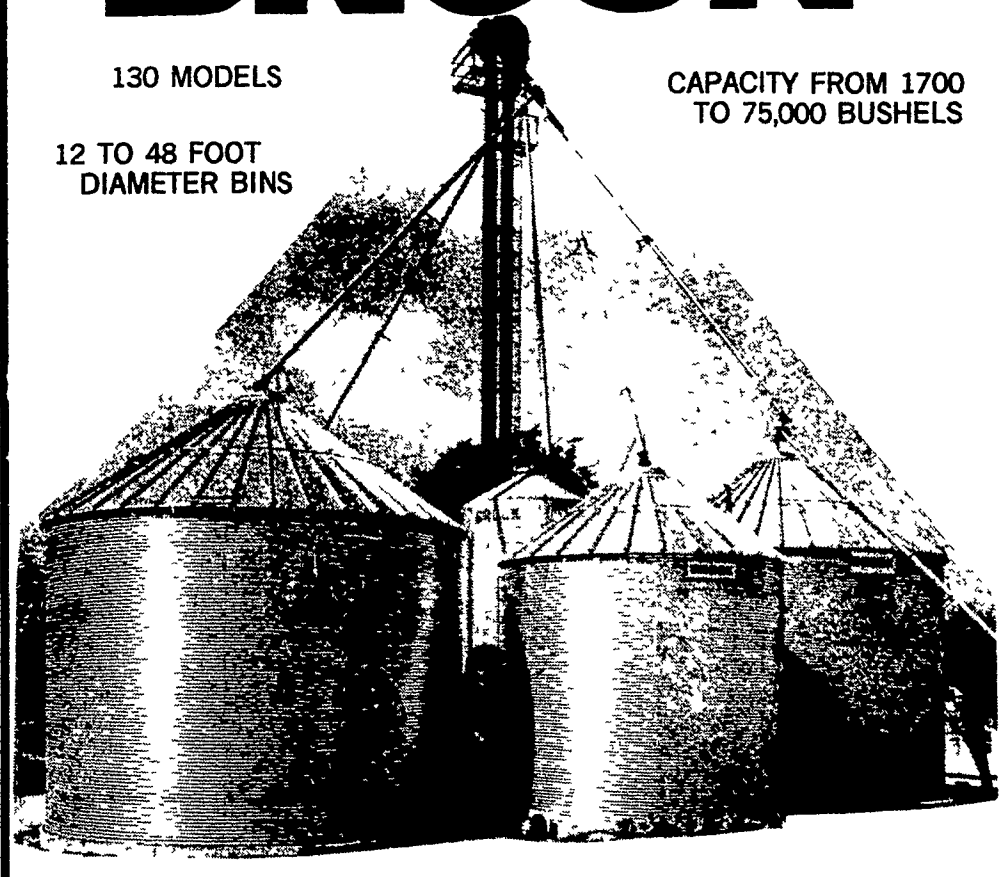
The first Easter egg roll was held April 2, 1877, at the Capitol grounds in Washington, D.C., during the administration of President Rutherford Hayes. President Franklin Roosevelt discontinued the custom in 1942, but President Eisenhower reinstated egg-rolling in 1953.

BROCK® GRAIN BINS

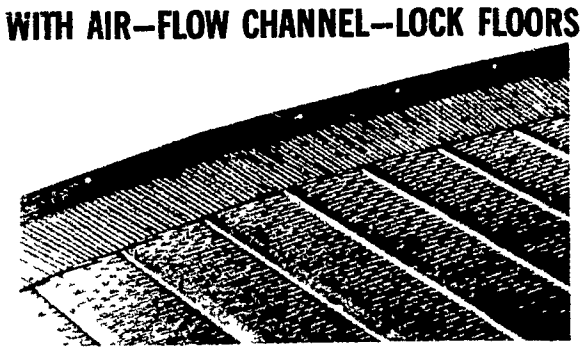
130 MODELS

12 TO 48 FOOT DIAMETER BINS

CAPACITY FROM 1700 TO 75,000 BUSHELS



20% MORE DRYING EFFICIENCY WITH AIR—FLOW CHANNEL—LOCK FLOORS



CRIMPED FLASHING
The galvanized steel flashing is crimped for strength and gives the sweep wheel of the bin unloader more gripping power. The flashing is perforated for maximum air flow. Standard type with slits will also be furnished.

CHANNEL—LOCK FLOORS
Channel type support gives more strength because sections fit securely together with a tight fit. Assembly is simple and easy. Floor sections are made of roll forming quality steel for strength, and are quality galvanized to help eliminate corrosion.

1976 Food outlook forecasts softening prices

U.S. food production gains 12 per cent; while food stamps increased to $8.3 billion

WASHINGTON — Larger supplies of many crop and livestock items are slowing the rise in retail food prices. Following the sharp jump last summer, food prices during the fourth quarter of 1975 averaged only one percent above the previous quarter and about seven percent above a year earlier. Further increases of around 1 percent per quarter are in prospect through mid-1976 with food prices for the first half of the year likely averaging around six percent above a year earlier. This would compare with first half increases relative to a year earlier of nearly nine percent in 1975 and about 17 percent in 1974.

Retail prices of red meat are expected to average close to last fall's level during the first half of this year, with increases for beef and veal during the spring about offset by lower pork prices. Poultry prices have fallen from their peak of last summer, and may show some further declines in coming months. Egg prices may remain strong before dropping seasonally this spring. Retail dairy prices, which advanced rapidly late last year, may stabilize this winter and hold steady through the spring as supplies increase. Prices for fishery items likely will continue to strengthen, reflecting tighter supplies of some products.

Fresh produce prices are likely to advance seasonally during coming months. Prices of most other crop-related foods will probably remain relatively stable, as generally ample supplies balance out continued upward pressures of processing and marketing costs. However, coffee prices are expected to continue to surge ahead, reflecting anticipated reductions in world supplies following the 1975 freeze in Brazil.

Food prices during the second half of this year will be heavily influenced by weather and crop conditions during the 1976 growing season. Generally large U.S. and world crops, along with further increases in the output of livestock-related foods, likely would result in a continued slow rise in food prices this summer and fall. Alternatively, weather problems that reduced crop output would put upward pressures on retail food prices, especially in late 1976 and in 1977.

Per capita food consumption is headed for an increase this year — perhaps by one to two percent from 1975, essentially recovering the 1½ percent decline of last year. Both animal- and crop-related foods are expected to share about equally in the gain.

The increased consumption of animal-related foods for 1976 reflects an expected higher level of output of fed beef, pork, and poultry products as domestic feeding recovers from the relatively low 1975 level. Prospects for increased consumption of crop-related foods in 1976 in part reflect larger beginning year inventories of many commodities. But crop food consumption during the latter half of the year will also depend on weather conditions and the size of 1976 crop harvests.

U.S. food production gains

The Consumer Price Index (CPI) for all foods at retail in 1975 averaged 8½ percent above 1974. This compares with annual increases of 14½ percent the previous two years. The 1975 rise reflected an increase of more than eight percent for food-at-home prices, with food-away-from-home prices rising more than nine percent over a year earlier. A widening of marketing spreads accounted for about three-fourths of the rise in retail food prices in 1975.

The Wholesale Price Index (WPI) for all foods averaged 6½ percent above 1974, reflecting prices that were sharply above year-earlier levels at the beginning of the year. However, by December 1975 food prices at wholesale averaged about two percent below a year earlier. Prices for beverages and red meats, especially pork and poultry, registered large increases, but prices for fish, dairy products, and processed fruits and vegetables were also higher. Fresh and dried fruits and vegetables, eggs, vegetable oils, and sugar prices were lower.

Meat and poultry consumption rebounded during the fourth quarter from low spring and summer levels, reducing the overall decline in food consumption last year. However, the index of per capita food consumption fell about one percent in 1975 from a year earlier to its lowest level since 1968.

Per capita consumption of crop-related foods in 1975 remained essentially unchanged from 1974 and about two percent below the record high of 1973. Substantial increases for fresh and processed fruits and fresh potatoes — and lesser gains for processed vegetables and cereal products — just about offset a sharp drop in sugar consumption and smaller declines for vegetable oils, fresh vegetables, and coffee.

Consumption of animal-related foods fell about two percent last year but remained slightly above the low 1973 level. Unfavorable returns to livestock producers in 1974 and 1975 led to sharp cutbacks in the output of pork, grain-fed beef, and poultry products through much of 1975. However, a big gain in slaughter of cattle and calves with little or no grain feeding prevented an even larger decline in red meat consumption.

For all of 1975, expenditures for food averaged nearly 11 percent higher than in 1974, with most of the increase in the first half. Expenditures for food at home were up 10 percent for 1975, while expenditures for restaurant meals and snacks increased nearly 14 percent. Food expenditures increased at a slower rate in 1975 than during the preceding two years because of more moderate price increases.

During 1975 the total value of food stamps issued rose to $8.3 billion, for an increase of more than 40 percent over 1974. Bonus stamps (stamps received free) rose 45 percent to $5 billion. Food stamp purchases accounted for nearly six percent of personal consumption expenditures on food for use at home. In 1975, for the first time in the program's history, households not on public assistance rolls accounted for over half of food stamp recipients.

Net production of U.S. farm food commodities totaled almost 12 percent above 1974, reflecting a 16-percent gain in output of food crops as well as the small feed use of crops. However, the large crop and perhaps some holdback in marketings resulted in a big buildup in inventories of food crops. Total domestic use, excluding feed and seed, declined slightly from 1974 to 1975. Most of this decrease occurred in food use, the major utilization component of farm food commodities. However, the volume of exports, the second significant utilization component, grew by more than nine percent. Larger exports more than offset the decline in domestic consumption, so that total disappearance in 1975 was up slightly from 1974.

Harry Ulrich named to Pa. ASC committee

Washington - Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz recently named Harry R. Ulrich of Hummelstown to the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee. The three-person committee is responsible for the administration of federal farm programs in Pennsylvania.

During his 26 years of farming, Ulrich has produced corn, wheat, oats and laying hens and hogs. Currently he raises feeder pigs and plants 20 acres of corn on his land in Dauphin county. Before he began farming full-time, he taught agriculture. He has also supervised ice cream manufacturing and marketed the product.

A member of the Pennsylvania Farmers Association for 20 years, Ulrich has served as a state board member and as president for his county. He has held the posts of secretary, treasurer and president in the Pennsylvania Poultry Federation and for the past two years has served as director and president of the Pennsylvania Council Farm Organization. The Dauphin county farmer has been a member of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Advisory Council for 10 years. He was named a Master Farmer in 1962 and chosen for Gamma Sigma Delta Honor Society in 1970.

Mr. Ulrich currently is president of the East Hanover Township Lions Club. He holds membership in the Masons, the Shriners, Tall Cedars, the Master Farmers Club, the American Legion and the Young Farmers Association. In addition, Ulrich serves as a trustee for Pennsylvania State University, which he attended. He and his wife, Kathleen, are members of the Methodist church.

Ulrich joins Claude R. Hetherington of Zion Grove, chairman, and William H. Ringler of Berlin on the Pennsylvania State ASC Committee.

Boots-Saddles 4-H Meets

Boots & Saddles 4-H club held their February meeting at the Farm and Home Center. The meeting was called to order by President Patty Groff, and roll call was called with a count of fifty-five members present with a total of seventeen new members. Secretary Terry Miller read the minutes of the last meeting. The treasurers report was given by Lashon Bussell. Club events for the following two months were discussed. Our next meeting will be held March 12, at the Hempfield High School at 7:30. County Council representatives are the following: Deb Carmean, Terry Miller, Sandy Hamilton, Shelly Sandell, Deb Myers, Dan Fellumbaum, Jr., Lashon Bussell, Donna Sammons, and Patty Groff.

Two demonstrations were then given. One by Mr. Brosey on proper balancing of a horses foot and one by Sharon Slein on internal parasites.

Teen leaders then got together with their groups and got acquainted with new members. The meeting was then adjourned and refreshments were served.

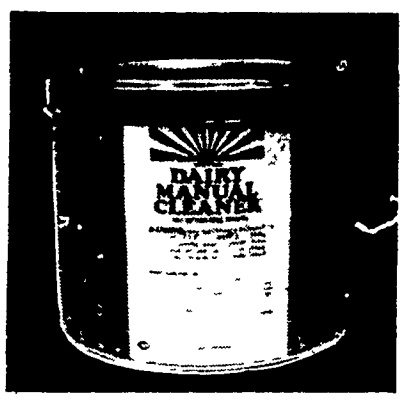
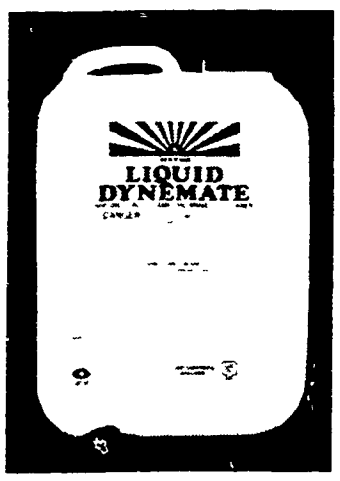
Clean and sanitize your dairy operation ...with five new products from Wayne

With the introduction of our five new products, you now have a total of nine to choose from. Wayne Foamchek 100 is a heavy duty acid cleaner and milkstone remover for CIP installations. It leaves equipment clean and sparkling.

For manual cleaning, try Wayne Kleen-Ezey. An excellent stone remover, it also removes rust.

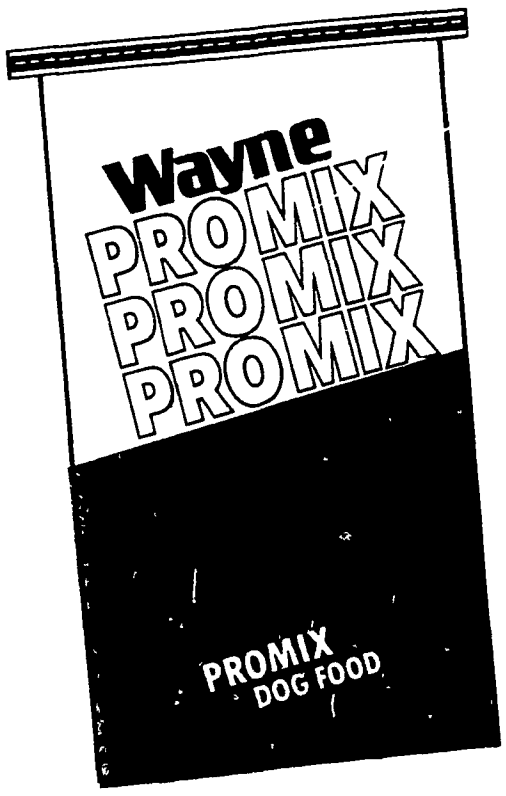


Another new fast-action product is Wayne Dairy Manual Cleaner. Free rinsing, it works in varying water conditions and is biodegradable.



If your operation's equipment calls for the use of a liquid alkaline cleaner, low-sudsing Wayne Liquid Dynemate may be your answer.

And, dairy sanitizing problems are quickly and conveniently solved with Wayne Dairy Sanitizer.



New Wayne Pro-Mix has joined the professional line of Wayne dog food products. Designed for quality and value, Pro-Mix can be fed dry or moistened. Either way, it provides complete and balanced nutrition for your dog.

Pro-Mix is economical, too—that's something every dog owner will enjoy. See your Wayne Feeds dealer today—ask him about new Wayne Pro-Mix.

ANNOUNCING

A SPECIAL RECYCLING ANIMAL WASTE AND FEED STORAGE SEMINAR

THURSDAY, MARCH 11, 1976

9:30 A.M. - 3:00 P.M.

FARM AND HOME CENTER

1383 Arcadia Road
Lancaster, PA 17601

TOP FARMERS WILL NOT WANT TO MISS THESE SPEAKERS!

FROM CANADA: DR. A. G. MEIERING

Dr. A. G. Meiering, Engineering Professor, University of Guelph, Ontario, Canada, will be the featured speaker on: "The Truth About Sealed Silos: Concrete vs Steel." Meiering's documented research report will center on Oxygen Controlled Silos and deals with changes in total pressure in the silo as directly proportional to temperature changes outside the silo. His paper also compared concrete and steel silos.

FROM GEORGIA: MR. SAMUEL HAY, JR.

Samuel Hay, Jr., a dairyman turned beef producer from Covington Georgia, will discuss his experiences in recycling animal waste utilizing 40 percent manure, 45 percent cracked shelled corn and 15 percent silage or hay. This mixture is ensiled in an oxygen controlled silo for 10 days and is ready for feeding.

FROM PENN STATE: DR. LESTER A. BURDETTE

Lester A. Burdette, Extension Animal Scientist from the Pennsylvania State University will discuss the topic: "Does It Pay To Feed The Corn Cob?"
